Johnson Arrives In Manila

MANILA (AP)—President Johnson arrived Sunday for the Manila conference on Viet Nam after renewing a U.S. offer to halt bombing North Viet Nam and produce a troop withdrawal schedule if the Communists say what they will do for peace.

I came to listen and to learn and to do what I can to help chart the work ahead," he said of the seven-nation summit conference here Monday and Tuesday.

In a statement prepared for his arrival from a jubilant three-day visit to Australia, Johnson said he enters the conference in a "spirit of partnership with a new, emerging Asia."

He will be meeting with the heads of Australia, New Zealand, South Viet Nam, South Korea and Thailand — all fighting the Communists in Viet Nam.

ROAD TO MANILA

—a capsule view of America's 12 years of involvement in Viet Nam appears on page 7, section 1.

"I come to Manila at a moment when Asia and Asians are turning a page in history," Johnson said.

"We shall review the military situation, but mainly we shall look at the way we can help the Vietnamese improve their economy and the life of their citizens."

"We shall turn our attention to the principles that govern our common search for a way to end the conflict with Hanoi." The President said that in the moving ahead to a better way of life the Asians must take the lead themselves, but the United States is prepared to help in development projects.

His renewal of the peace offer came in a statement as he left for Manila from Townsville, Australia.

He ended his three-day Australian visit after an overnight stay in Brisbane, where he was warmly received Saturday night.

Townsville, 690 miles northwest of Brisbane, was on his flight schedule as a refueling stop on the 3,700-mile journey to Manila. It was one of the places in Australia in which he served as a lieutenant commander in the Navy in World War II.

Johnson said that after the conference in Manila — involving the heads of the seven nations fighting the Communists in Viet Nam — he planned to review the progress of the Vietnamese war and "the prospects for bringing it to an end, and what may be done to heal the wound of a long and tragic war."

He noted that the United States had offered once before to halt bombings of North Viet Nam and to provide a timetable for a withdrawal of troops if the North Vietnamese would reciprocate.

In Manila, Secretary of State Dean Rusk told reporters Saturday the United States had no indication from Hanoi as to what it would do if bombings ended.

Johnson said in renewing the offer to North Viet Nam:

"We are ready to stop the bombing of North Viet Nam. We are ready to produce the schedule for the withdrawal of our troops — whenever the other side tells us what it is prepared to do to move toward peace in Viet Nam."

The President said he had found during his swing through four Australian cities that "the vast majority of the American

VC Kill 4 Saigon Policemen

SAIGON (AP)—A band of Viet Cong raiders, disguised in the camouflage uniforms of Vietnamese Army rangers, attacked a police station on the edge of Saigon Saturday night and killed four policemen and a civilian.

The raid fit the pattern of a surge of Communist terror that allied commanders believe was planned to coincide with the Manila summit conference opening Monday. Intelligence reports indicated stepped up action by the Viet Cong.

The Saturday night raiders, using machine guns, grenades and rifles, also wounded one other policeman and three Vietnamese children. They made off with almost all of the police arms and ammunition.

Extra security measures under way also renewed speculation that President Johnson would visit the war front, most likely next Thursday, with a stop at the big U.S. Marine base at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon.

Press Air Attacks

While the ground fighting lapsed again into small patrol actions, the air war over North Viet Nam picked up steam as clearing weather permitted U.S. pilots to mount 120 missions Friday, 40 more than the previous day. But the forays cost another American plane, the 40th announced loss of the war over the North.

There were new Communist propaganda blasts. North Viet Nam President Ho Chi Minh warned his nation to watch for what he termed attempts by the United States and its allies to smuggle "spy commandos" into North Viet Nam. He also repeated Communist charges that the Manila conference was aimed at escalating the war in Viet Nam.

There has been a great deal of Viet Cong terrorist activity over the past week, including five grenade attacks aimed at Americans and the exploding of

Rescuers Uncover 130 Bodies After Wales Avalanche

ABERFAN, Wales (AP)—Heavy rain fell on this grieving Welsh village Saturday, bringing fear that a death-dealing mountain of coal slag might move again and imperil nearly 2,000 exhausted rescue workers toiling in the ruins of a buried school.

Police said the death toll in this greatest tragedy of modern Wales may rise to 220—most of the victims the young children of miners.

As the dreaded rain began pouring down on the vast heap of coal mine refuse still menacing the village, workers reported 130 bodies — nearly all children from 7 to 11 — had been recovered from the wreck of Pantglas School.

It was torrential rain that weakened the 800-foot-high mound of slag Friday and sent it sliding down on Aberfan, swamping the tiny school and 17 adjoining cottages.

Even so, the work went on. Using mechanical shovels, trench diggers, draglines, picks and shovels, even bare hands, the men carried on, fighting the sliding slimy stream of coal dust, rocks and mud that lay like a black shroud around the school.

The rescuers were toiling in the direct path of any future avalanche that could be set off by the rain.

Earlier Saturday engineers dug deep channels in the mass of slag to divert surplus water building up inside the heap.

"They succeeded in halting the slow slide — but rains could start it on the move again."

Police, who estimated Friday the death toll would reach 200, raised this figure after establishing that more cottages had been buried.

"We now think the number of dead may be 210 or 220," a spokesman said. "At first we thought 14 houses had been swamped but now we know that 17 went under the slag."

"There may be whole families in them."

Dig 24 Hours

Rescue workers, many of them miners searching the rubble for their own children, were near the breaking point after 24 hours of nonstop effort. The British government offered to call in the army to help the fatigued miners after several had collapsed from exhaustion.

Officials had almost given up hope of finding any more survivors in the school and crushed cottages.

"There might be a pocket of air somewhere," said Dr. David Rowlands, deputy medical officer for the district, "but this is a forlorn hope."

Store Boycott Gains Objective

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Goaded by a housewives' boycott, supermarket chains are knocking down food prices in Denver — something which happens rarely in these days of rising costs.

Cuts are estimated to run from 10 to 20 per cent by Peter Barash, a congressional subcommittee investigator who came to Denver, and they threatened to touch off a major price war which nobody appears to want.

Confusion surrounds the stay-away drive launched last Monday against five chains in this area of a million people, but it shows signs of spreading across the nation.

In Dallas, Tex., women are carrying out what they call a "ladycott." In Charlotte, N.C., a boycott sponsor said, "We've got a steamroller going."

On the March Meetings were scheduled in several other cities, coast to coast. Pickets are marching in some communities.

There is dissension among the Denver organizers. Nobody knows how many women consider themselves participating in the boycott, although guesses run as high as 100,000.

Some business spokesmen complain the campaign is unrealistic. Said one plaintively, "A lot of these women don't care about the facts, they just want the price of bacon to come down."

Whatever the reason, and whatever it may portend, prices are being marked down. The chains—and others—are advertising "lowest prices in Denver."

Some typical weekend prices include a No. 1 1/2 can of pineapple, 29 cents, down a penny; a 6-

Against Price War

She said she can't yet assess whether the cuts will be permanent and she emphasizes she isn't trying to start a price war. "We are not against profit," she said in an interview.

If a price war develops, the independent food stores likely would be the most severe sufferers, and it was to these stores that the organization recommended housewives turn to bring chains into line.

Lloyd King, general manager of one of the affected chains, first raised the possibility of a price war, saying everyone

Famed 89th Congress OKs Tax Bill, Adjourns

WASHINGTON (AP)—

The 89th Congress—termed history's greatest by President Johnson — adjourned Saturday after the Senate had overcome a frustrating, last-minute deadlock over a tax bill.

The final gavel fell after hours of angry debate in the Senate — and of speech making and recesses in the House, which had completed its business Friday.

The Senate adjourned for the year at 5:08 p.m., the House at 5:46 p.m.

A scant 17 days ahead are the elections that will shape the 90th Congress. The 89th, winding up its business, fixed Jan. 10 as the date for the next one to convene.

The Senate's impasse swirled around an intricate, amendment-laden tax bill, originally designed to lure foreign investments to the United States.

OK Campaign Funds In the end, the amendments overshadowed the bill. Among them was a provision that will have the government finance presidential election campaigns, with $60 million to be split between Republicans and Democrats in 1968.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., called it dangerous, complained there were no safeguards against corruption, and vowed to fight the bill with every weapon in a senator's arsenal.

But Gore yielded, stopped talking, and the bill passed, 31 to 22. He had lost earlier, 37 to 15, on a move to kill the amendments that had been loaded onto the bill.

That opened the way for passage of the year's last big bill, a $5-billion appropriations measure. Like the tax package, it went to the White House.

The money bill brought the total appropriated by the 89th Congress, in its two years of existence, to a record of about $264 billion. Of that total, $119 billion was voted last year and about $144 billion this year, including interest on the national debt.

Not even the Congress which met during the first two years of World War II surpassed that total. It appropriated about $205 billion in 1941 and 1942.

The 89th Congress has been hailed time and again by President Johnson as a great one. Lately, on the campaign platform, he has taken to calling it the greatest ever.

LBJ Notified One of the traditional ceremonies marking the end of a session is to notify the President Congress is about to adjourn and ask him if he has any more recommendations for legislation.

Because of the time differential, House leaders woke the President at 5:30 a.m. in Brisbane, Australia, to have him tell them no, he had no other recommendations and that he was pleased with what they had done.

"Go back to sleep, Mr. President," said Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the acting House majority leader.

Johnson didn't get back to sleep. Senate leaders made a similar call to him a little later.

House members, when their work is cleaned up as it was Saturday, often engage in song-fests and good natured horseplay, but there was none of that Saturday. There were relatively few spectators in the galleries.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and other senators went out to the Walter Reed Army Hospital room of Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois to make their call.

The 1966 session stayed in Washington later prior to the election than any election-year Congress since 1942.

Veterans on Capitol Hill said they did not recall a more restrained windup of a congressional session.

No Horseplay House members, when their work is cleaned up as it was Saturday, often engage in song-fests and good natured horseplay, but there was none of that Saturday. There were relatively few spectators in the galleries.

REDs FILE PROTEST CLAIMING THAT U.S. KILLED CIVILIANS

TOKYO (AP)—North Viet Nam announced Saturday it has lodged a protest with the International Control Commission charging that six American planes bombed and strafed a junior high school and killed 40 civilians, including 30 pupils.

Hanoi's official Viet Nam news agency, in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo, said the North Vietnamese school was located in Thuy Dan Village, Thuy Anh District, Thai Binh Province.

The broadcast added: "This is the 296th school in North Viet Nam bombed by U.S. aircraft since Aug. 5, 1964, when the U.S. made its first pirate air raid on North Viet Nam. According to incomplete figures, more than 300 pupils and over 30 teachers in North Viet Nam have been killed during the raids on the schools."

28 Killed In Mishap Off Manila

MANILA (AP)—The crowded inter-island steamer Pioneer Leyte collided with an American freighter in Manila Bay Saturday night and sank with the known loss of 28 dead.

Rescue craft speeding from the shore only six miles away saved 160 persons and the second ship, the 7,598-ton American vessel Golden State, limped into Manila Harbor with a jagged six-foot gash in her side just above the water line.

The Golden State had several bodies aboard and began unloading them in Manila's south harbor, hardly a mile from the hotel where President Johnson will be staying when he arrives for the seven-nation Manila summit conference.

The ill-fated Pioneer Leyte was the sister ship of the Pioneer Cebu which went down in a typhoon four months ago with the loss of 132 lives out of 262 passengers on board.

The Pioneer Leyte, a 778-ton ship, sailed from Manila before midnight Saturday on the same run her sister ship had been making to call at several Central Visayan islands and the port of Cebu.

The collision took place about 10 miles outside Manila's harbor and six miles off the U.S. Naval Station at Sangley Point. The bay was calm but there was a light tropical overcast.

Rescue authorities could give no details of the accident.

A fleet of U.S. and Philippine Navy small craft combed the disaster area in hopes of finding more survivors. Helicopters from the naval station joined the search.

Connor Asks Restraint On Business Dealings

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor confirmed Saturday he will recommend continuance for a third year of the voluntary program of restraint on business transactions affecting the balance of payments.

Connor told the Business Council, made up of foremost industrial executives, that his Business Advisory Committee has pronounced recommended its extension although it was originally scheduled to expire at the end of 1966.

It had been authoritatively reported earlier that the program would be continued but Connor's statement was the first official one from the administration.

The advisory committee's chairman, Albert L. Nickerson, told reporters covering the Business Council's fall meeting here that his committee feels the government must move more vigorously to correct the payments deficit. Nickerson is board chairman of Mobil Oil Corp., New York.

The advisory committee's official report, he disclosed, calls for "at least a balance in the federal budget" to subdue inflationary pressures and discourage the outflow of dollars.

Connor said he approves the advisory group's findings and will recommend it to President Johnson's Cabinet committee on the balance of payments without any substantial change from the advisers' recommendations or from the present formula for limiting corporate investments overseas.

Connor acknowledged that he had hoped for an end to the restraints and believes the program could have been cut off except for the Viet Nam war.

Hewlett Johnson, Noted 'Red Dean', Dies At Age 92

CANTERBURY, England (AP)—Dr. Hewlett Johnson, 92, whose outspoken praise of communism won him the nickname "Red Dean" of Canterbury and made him one of the Church of England's stormiest figures of this century, died in a hospital Saturday.

He failed to fulfill a prediction made at 66 that he would live to 100.

And after a highly controversial career that provoked global headlines and many angry editorials, Dr. Johnson's death scarcely made any front pages here. It got pretty much lost in the increasing tragedy of the Wales school disaster for which this nation mourned.

Even the Soviet news agency Tass gave only a one-paragraph, 25-word obituary to the 1951 Stalin Peace Prize winner. It described him as a "well-known peace champion and great friend of the Soviet people."

One high-ranking delegate after another went out of his way to emphasize that this was a conference concerning peace, but also to caution that no miracles should be expected of the meeting.

But the conference also will be the starting point of a new and determined U.S. peace drive, backed by the allies participating at Manila — South Viet Nam, South Korea, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines.

Immediately after the conference, U.S. Ambassador at Large W. Averell Harriman and William P. Bundy, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, will take off on journeys to at least nine Asian and European nations. They will report to those countries on the sessions here and listen to their views on what might be done next to bring peace and security to this part of the world.

Two Days Of Talks Set The conference will take place in Malacanang Palace, the White House of the Philippines, with President Ferdinand E.

All In Readiness For Manila Talks

MANILA (AP)—Public excitement heightened in this hot and humid capital Sunday on the eve of the Manila summit conference on Viet Nam which President Johnson, flying in from a triumphal tour of Australia, will attend.

Johnson meets Monday with the heads of six other nations fighting the Communists in Viet Nam in deliberations affecting the future of peace in Southeast Asia and perhaps the peace of the world. Johnson had no public appearances on his schedule after the welcoming ceremonies for his midafternoon arrival.

Much of the public excitement seems to stem from a feeling of pride that the Philippines had been chosen for such important proceedings.

Officials eased the perils of Manila's traffic-clogged streets for conference participants. Traffic, including the thousands of multi-colored "jeepney" buses, fashioned from World War II vintage vehicles, is being routed away from main roads used by the visiting dignitaries.

Lay Groundwork Advance teams of diplomats of the seven nations labored at preliminary spadework for the official opening of the conference in an atmosphere of agreement on fundamentals. But there were points of misgivings on the part of some and shades of difference in the approach to peace in Viet Nam.

It was shaping up as a conference of high power and low expectations.

One high-ranking delegate after another went out of his way to emphasize that this was a conference concerning peace, but also to caution that no miracles should be expected of the meeting.

But the conference also will be the starting point of a new and determined U.S. peace drive, backed by the allies participating at Manila — South Viet Nam, South Korea, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines.

Jersey Teen Gets Probation On Theft Charge

JERSEYVILLE — A teenage youth was sentenced in the Jersey County Circuit court Thursday to one year's probation on a charge of the theft of an automobile in Jerseyville Oct. 15.

Judge Howard Lee White assessed the penalty and stipulated that the first fourteen days of the sentence was to be spent in the Jersey County jail with credit on the fourteen days to be allowed. The youth was arrested Saturday night by Alton police and held there before being taken to the Jersey county jail on a warrant filed against him Monday. He had been in jail since his arrest. Wednesday morning he entered a plea of guilty to the theft charge before Judge William Conway of Springfield in the Magistrate's Division of the Jersey County Circuit Court. The case was continued until 10 a.m. Thursday for hearing of testimony in mitigation of sentence.

Early Morgan Residents Came From England

An illustrated tour of England and other United Kingdom countries with special reference to the ancestral areas for dozens of Morgan County families was presented Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Bowen at the fall dinner meeting of the Morgan County Historical Society.

Dr. Alfred J. Henderson, president of the Society, presided. The invocation was offered by Rev. Donald L. Batz of Centenary Methodist Church. The Bowen family during the past summer lived on a farm near Aylesbury about 40 miles northwest of London. They traveled throughout the British Isles and investigated places of particular interest to Morgan County residents. According to Mr. Bowen, about 80% of the persons listed in William F. Short's History of Morgan County, 1906 originally came from the United Kingdom — especially Yorkshire.

The winter dinner meeting of the historical society will be held on January 20 or 27.

The society will host the Sangamon County Historical Society next spring for a tour of about six county residences. Suggestions for homes to be included should be given to Mrs. George L. Drennan (245-7523) or Miss Miriam Russel (245-7755).

Improvement For Passavant

An overhead protection for the emergency entrance at Passavant Memorial Area Hospital will be constructed within the next few months. The greater cost of this addition comes from proceeds of the Aid Society's annual bazaars and Deaconess Day teas. Some cash gifts have been received already from friends of the hospital for the improvements at the hospital entrance. Several gifts made in memory of the late Leroy Smith are included in meeting the cost of this construction.

"All proceeds from Aid Society projects are used to benefit the hospital and its patients," states Mrs. James Dwyer, Aid president. "Since the hospital budget cannot cover such needed modernization, it is a most appropriate way to use money that will be earned at the 1966 Bazaar, to be held Friday, Oct. 28th, in the lounge of the Student Nurse Residence," she added.

The 23 by 40 foot overhead roof will cover the area at the rear of the hospital where patients enter from ambulances and cars. There will also be a storm guard to protect the north side of the entrance. Steel posts will support the aluminum overhead and siding. The entrance ramp is also being modified for additional safety and convenience and automatic doors will be installed in place of the present ones in use.

Faith Lutheran Manifesto To Be Read Next Sunday

A 16-point "manifesto" to be read Sunday, October 30, in Faith Lutheran church, Finley at Walnut, will begin a period of self-examination and renewal at the church as well as in 6,217 other congregations of the Lutheran Church in America.

The Rev. Gerald M. Peterson, pastor of Faith Lutheran church, said the manifesto consists of a "check list" of characteristics that a congregation alert to modern times must consider.

The document will be read from the pulpit on Reformation Sunday and then studied and discussed with the help of material being prepared by the LCA Executive Council, Pastor Peterson said.

He said the LCA approved the manifesto and accompanying two-year study at its church-wide convention last June. At the 1964 convention, the LCA became concerned that some of its congregations may have lost touch with modern changes in private and community life, and ordered a study of the nature and mission of the congregation.

The manifesto is the result. Among other points, the manifesto urges the congregation to greater cooperation with other Lutheran and non-Lutheran bodies; it urges recognition of the "dramatic increase in the proportion of youth in the population;" and it asks the congregation to increase efforts to "promote justice, relieve misery, reconcile the estranged."

The manifesto also demands a thorough examination of the congregation's inner, spiritual life, urging members "to be the family of God in which those who suffer the bruises of life can find support and help, the complacent are stirred, and the creative and venturesome are encouraged."

Finally, it calls for regular examination of the congregation's organizational life "to make sure that every part of it is an authentic expression of the gospel and contributes to the fulfilling of its mission."

"The manifesto is part of a church-wide look at itself," said the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, LCA president. "I hail it with joy and gratitude. It has the potential for immeasurable good."

Study materials are being prepared to help LCA congregations strengthen themselves in terms of the mandate.

Churches will be encouraged to fit themselves into needs of special groups, even "if outside the normal pattern of congregational life."

The Lutheran Church in America, with 3,265,000 members, is the largest Lutheran body in North America.

Set Four Dates For Western Cattle Sales

Beef producers in the Jacksonville area are encouraged to consign cattle to the WILA (Western Illinois Livestock Association) cooperative feeder cattle sales, says George Trull, Morgan county farm adviser.

Sales in western Illinois are scheduled for Nov. 3 at Carrollton - 1 P.M.; November 7 at Pittsfield - 7 P.M.; Nov. 17 at Macomb - 1 P.M. and Nov. 22 at Canton - 1 P.M.

Any producer in Western Illinois may consign cattle to these sales. Cattle will be inspected and graded to sell in uniform lots by University of Illinois livestock specialists. The Cooperative Extension Service and local county groups are cooperating with beef producers in these sales.

According to Trull, feeder cattle should sell well in the Cooperative sales. A top price of $32.50 was recorded in a recent southern Illinois cooperative sale with most lots of choice steer calves selling from $28.50 to $31.50.

Producers who are interested in consigning cattle to WILA sales should contact John Clark, Morgan county WILA Director, Route 2, Arenzville or contact the County Extension Office, East Morton Road, Jacksonville.

Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council News

Girl Scout people are emulating and talented people. Here are some we would like you to meet: Mrs. A. W. Applebee, Mrs. Albert McGinnis, and Mrs. Wm. Freeman.

Betty Applebee has been a Scout leader for eleven years. She began with a troop of ten-year-olds 21 years ago. She then served on the Board of Directors but soon took over a troop at Lafayette School. Some of these then young Scouts are now college seniors. Later Betty became a Brownie leader and has seen some of these girls through their Junior and Cadette levels. This fall they have become Senior Scouts with Betty as their advisor. Not only has Mrs. Applebee been an active leader but also found time to be a Cub Scout Den Mother for three years. Betty has served on the Personnel Committee, assistant leader for a Senior troop in 1963, directed the Fall Roundup Rally three years ago, attended two regional meetings, and the National Convention in Miami in 1963. She has been active in training other leaders and girls on the board for a time. This fall Betty has been busy giving workshops for Patrol Leaders and Cadette Leaders. While Betty's troops have been active in camping they have also served the community by ushering at the Jacksonville Symphony Concerts and stuffed envelopes for civic groups.

Another active adult Scout is Mary Louise McGinnis. She is currently serving as Program Chairman on the Girl Scout Board. Before moving to Jacksonville, she was an assistant leader in Pittsfield. She later was a neighborhood chairman and then became President of the Girl Scout Board in Pittsfield. After Pittsfield joined the Two Rivers Council in Quincy, Mary Louise became a District Chairman for her area. We are pleased to have Mrs. McGinnis active in the Illinois Prairie Council.

This begins Lois Freeman's second year as Executive Director of our Council. She shows great enthusiasm and understanding needed for this job. While Lois does have an office, much of her work takes her before the community, such as making speeches before civic groups, attending regional meetings with other Girl Scout personnel, assisting at a committee meeting or visiting with some of the troops and leaders in our four-county council. Lois is also responsible for seeing that every leader, assistant leader, troop organizer and Board member has been trained and prepared for their position. She has provided an incentive to make our council grow. Before she became the Executive Director, Lois was sixth grade teacher at South Jacksonville school. Mrs. McGinnis and Mrs. Freeman are the elected delegates to the National Convention being held in Detroit, Michigan. Mrs. Applebee is also attending this Girl Scout Convention with them. We are proud to have such dedicated women represent our Council.

COMING EVENTS:
Please remember the Outdoor Workshop that is to be held tomorrow, October 24th. (Note change of place) at the Y.M.C.A. at 9:00 A.M.
The Song and Game workshop will be held on November 7th, 1:30, at the Y.M.C.A.
Coming up on Wednesday, November 2nd, 11:30 at the Central Christian Church is the Annual Council Meeting. See you there!

Twelve Long Years Of U.S. Involvement In Viet Nam

GEN. W. C. WESTMORELAND

HO CHI MINH

LYNDON B. JOHNSON

Road To Manila

By The Associated Press

ROBERT S. McNAMARA

GEN. NGUYEN CAO KY

DEAN RUSK

EDITOR'S NOTE—The Manila conference convenes Monday to survey the situation in Viet Nam and the prospects for peace in a war that is really two wars. Besides the tactical problems the seven nations' leaders must consider the dilemmas that lie beyond military victory—the way to insure real peace in a program centering on the process called pacification. What are the factors this meeting must consider? What is the all-out strategy? Where are the gains and failures? How did all this come about? To answer these and other questions on the eve of Manila, The Associated Press called upon a dozen experienced correspondents in Viet Nam and elsewhere to trace the war's background, to show how it is going today, and to discuss the outlook. Their report is based on the best available information, including front-line observation and reports from hundreds of official and unofficial sources.

By The Associated Press
One October day in 1954 President Dwight D. Eisenhower wrote to the little-known and little-understood premier of an equally little-known and little-understood country:

"I am, accordingly, instructing the American ambassador to Viet Nam to examine with you in your capacity as chief of government, how an intelligent program of American aid given directly to your government can serve to assist Viet Nam in its present hour of trial."

A handful of American Military men proceeded to Saigon as members of the training mission to help the new country's army get into fighting trim. They were the first American advisers sent to a land smaller in area than Missouri, but entangled in political, military and economic chaos that grew and grew until it shook the world.

Those first steps, taken at a time when America was caught up in an off-year election and concern over the cold war, aroused little attention. American aid was going to many countries and several had U.S. advisers. And military men had a long-standing fear that U.S. involvement in any Asian land war would drain the nation's strength.

Certainly a large share of the more than 5,000 American fighting men who have died to date in Viet Nam combat were concerned about the prospect for war in 1954. They were in their first years of school.

It is doubtful that any of the drama's future stars—Communist and non-Communist alike—could foresee that in 12 years a motley collection of rice paddies, jungle, mangrove swamps and mountains would be regarded as the gravest danger of touching off World War III.

Government planners hardly could foresee that the few million dollars authorized by Eisenhower would grow to a cost of $12.24 billion a year. The low figure is the one given officially by the Johnson administration, the high by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee. The high figure is equivalent to nearly $2,000 a year for every person in South Viet Nam, recent figures show present per capita income runs about $110 a year.

Eisenhower's letter, sent 12 years ago last Tuesday, was to a coldly intellectual product of Asia's ancient and vanishing Mandarin background—Ngo Dinh Diem.

Diem, a Catholic in a predominantly Buddhist country, rose to power almost by default in the months that followed the French defeat at Dien Bien Phu and the Geneva convention that was supposed to bring peace to Indochina.

Diem originally won American backing simply because he was considered the only pro-Western, anti-Communist strong man on the scene.

North Viet Nam, above the 17th Parallel cease-fire line set down at Geneva, was under the grip of Ho Chi Minh, Communist chief of the revolt which crushed French colonialism in Asia.

As U.S. officials saw it, an unaided South Viet Nam could not survive as a free, non-Communist nation.

By 1961, the threat of Communist insurgency in the country-side was mounting rapidly. Diem's army lacked expertise or heart to crush or even blunt the marauding bands of Viet Cong.

President John F. Kennedy ordered "100 of America's toughest jungle fighters" to Viet Nam as advisers. They were to accompany Vietnamese units into the field rather than simply offer advice at headquarters.

On Dec. 22, 1961, Spec. 4 James T. Davis of Livingston, Tenn., was riding with South Vietnamese soldiers when their truck was ambushed near Saigon. The Pentagon put the first name on the roll of American battle dead.

More combat advisers followed and then obsolete fighters and bombers were added. Helicopter units were sent to give the Vietnamese army mobility. Nothing worked and the insurgency swelled.

By mid-1963, there were 14,000 Americans in Viet Nam, but neither Washington nor South Viet Nam was watching the war. Militant Buddhists, charging the Catholic-dominated government was discriminating against their faith, launched massive protest demonstrations that rocked the regime. When thin, shaven-headed bonzes began turning themselves into human torches, they also burned away the last of official American support for the Diem government.

A coup by dissident generals toppled the regime. Diem and his brother Ngo Dinh Nhu were killed. But the ruling clique of generals hardly had time to assume their new powers before they in turn were toppled by another coup. Political chaos became the order of the day.

As the military wove its intricate plots and counterplots, North Viet Nam saw what it believed to be the decisive moment. Hanoi flooded the Ho Chi Minh Trail with troops and ordered the offensive that was to have ended the war.

By early 1965, the Communists' gamble was almost won. The U.S. mission in Saigon warned Washington that only a massive commitment of U.S. troops could see Saigon safely into the summer.

President Johnson ordered furious fighting with government troops the Communists lost more than 500 men but were rewarded with seeing troops of the untried U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division thrown into the contest. The key to the Communist plan was to smash a sizable American unit.

Days of maneuvering ended last fall in the Ia Drang Valley, an uninhabited jungle area where the first major U.S. Communist showdown of the war was staged. The toll, 240 Americans killed in one week, still stands as a high for the war.

The U.S. Command estimated that up to 2,000 North Vietnamese were killed in the most ferocious display of American firepower seen in combat since Korean days. Hundreds of tons of shells and bombs dropped by jets spelled the difference.

That may have been the turning point of the war.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland's command learned many lessons along the Ia Drang River.

er and quickly put them into effect.

One lesson was that more and better intelligence had to be gathered and acted on more quickly. The North Vietnamese divisions had to be hit while they were assembling—before they could throw the first punch.

Dozens of "spoiler operations" followed and for the first time in the war the allied side truly was calling the tune rather than leaving it to the Communists to pick time and place for a major battle.

North Vietnamese commanders also learned some lessons: Communist Chinese propaganda that America was a paper tiger did not apply to the rugged young men of Gen. Westmoreland's swelling command. Communist troops are proud of their discipline under fire, their aggressiveness and will to win. They found an enemy that could match them in these traits.

They found that the American formula to win, with the South Vietnamese army unable to stem the tide, was effective after all.

American air and artillery took a terrible retribution when the Communists hit an American unit. Jungle hideouts safe since the early days of the French war were hammered by B-52s and long-range artillery. Weary Communist commanders learned that even such redoubts as War Zone D and the Iron Triangle were not immune to a sudden visit by troop-laden helicopters.

Allied strategy was strangely simple compared to the vast complexities of a war in which political and military considerations share importance.

First, the enemy's big units must be found and hit with swift attacks in a series of meat-grinder operations that would gradually force the enemy to break up into smaller and smaller units for survival.

At the same time, the government must stand ready to offer Communist deserters an honorable way out through its chieu hoi, or open-arms policy. Defectors were paid for crossing over, made exempt from military service for up to a year and qualified for loans to start businesses or farms.

(Turn to Page Nine)

South Vietnamese: Victims Of Chaos

If the war is going better from the allied viewpoint, what is the mood of South Viet Nam itself?

The single overwhelming emotion among South Vietnamese is one of wariness with fighting, which has washed across the nation nearly without letup since World War II. As far as can be judged, much of the population—possibly a majority—is indifferent to who holds Saigon if only the fighting, the bombing, the artillery would stop.

STATE OF THE NATION
About 80 per cent of Viet Nam's population are villagers. For two decades they have seen their sons and fathers lured or forced into uniform by one side or the other.

Both sides have lied to them, gone back on promises and levied heavy taxes. Neither appears willing to let them raise rice and babies undisturbed.

An American political expert once said—only half in jest—that in unregulated, honest elections the Viet Cong would win in the government areas and the government in Communist-held sectors.

But elections, democracy, communism and other such terms are practically indefinable to most Vietnamese, ruled by emperors, French colonial regimes, the Japanese, and then civil and military dictators. South Vietnamese have no heritage in either of the two major conflicting ideologies vying in their country.

The Sept. 11 elections, hailed as a government victory in both Saigon and Washington, brought together 117 politicians to form a Constituent Assembly. Their job is to draw up a constitution and open the way for more elections to form a democratic government. So far the assembly has made little progress. The election was not a clearcut test of democracy vs. communism. Traditionally monolithic, the Communist movement can more or less speak with one voice. But on the other side, what little concept of democracy that was left over from the French among the educated elite has brought out divisiveness of the sort that plagued French governments before De Gaulle.

Whatever the outcome of moves toward a popular government, powerful currents growing out of ancient pressures and prejudices flow through the land.

There are sharp antagonisms between South, Central and North Vietnamese who live in South Viet Nam. More than 600,000 Northerners came to the South following the Geneva convention and many, such as Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, have risen to authority.

The Buddhist movement is deeply divided within itself except on one issue—fear and animosity toward Roman Catholics. One million mountain tribesmen—the Montagnards—are called "mo" or savages by the lowland Vietnamese, and discrimination is sharp.

Since the Diem dictatorship fell it has become evident that no regime can survive without support from key military factions. These factions often engaged in political warfare at the expense of the war against the Communists.

Premier Ky, who runs the air force, appears stronger than at any time in his 15-month rule. He put down dissidents in the army and faced down Buddhist leaders who kept the government in turmoil for nearly a year and a half.

Runaway inflation has been stemmed. American sources say, but perhaps temporarily. The government has yet to show itself capable of dealing with black-marketing, war-profiteering, corruption within its own ranks and bottlenecks that have kept many Vietnamese who might support the government from enjoying a share of $600 million worth of American aid now being spent annually.

STATE OF PACIFICATION
Until President Johnson met with Premier Ky at Honolulu in February, critics of the war said too much emphasis was being laid on the shooting war and too little in the vital sector of pacification, the struggle for loyalty in the countryside.

Johnson and Ky agreed that this area required more attention urgently. But willingness and cash so far have not meant much progress.

An axiom of the Viet Nam conflict is that it is largely a political war. Even with a military victory, the struggle could go to the Communists unless a viable government reaches out into the countryside to win over the people.

The program has gone through several evolutions, but basic strategy remains the same. Regular troops launch operations to clear a given area and secure it long enough for militiamen to take over. The government meanwhile sends in propaganda teams, police, administrators, teachers and medical personnel to live with the people.

The regular troops then sweep another area and the process is repeated, slowly expanding the safe perimeter. Ideally, the Viet Cong would shrivel and die as their support withers, denying them new recruits, food, information and hiding places.

The most important area to be pacified is the lush Mekong Delta. The program there so far has been a failure. Vietnamese clearing operations are carried out halfheartedly, and political action teams sent by the government soon move back to district or province towns for safety after the regulars leave. The Viet Cong infiltrate.

Two or more divisions of American troops may be sent to the delta soon to provide the muscle needed for effective clearing operations. Unless Vietnamese troops and government cadres follow up effectively, there is scant chance of success. Government action in pacification projects involving the U.S. Marines around Da Nang gives little ground for encouragement.

Tens of thousands of local government officials, police and teachers have been assassinated by the Viet Cong. Finding men and women with enough courage and dedication to replace them is not easy.

Even if they can be found, the pool of trained teachers, propagandists, local police and medical personnel is far too small for the massive job ahead. U.S. aid personnel report. Knowledgeable U.S. sources also say indifference and corruption by province and district officials severely hamper the work.

U.S. troops have won many friends by staffing civilian clinic stations with U.S. medicals, by helping with drainage and sanitation projects and the traditional gifts of candy and chewing gum that have made the American GI famous.

But U.S. heavy artillery and bombers have made many enemies in villages where troops encounter opposition.

Where Do We Stand?

Because Vietnamese troops have not come in behind U.S. clearing offensives with sustaining pacification programs, the who-holds-how-much real estate figures are little changed from several years ago. Although there are no hard and fast lines in the war, it is often estimated that the Communists hold 35 per cent of South Viet Nam, the government an equal amount. The remaining 30 per cent is contested or up for grabs.

Because the government holds the major cities, it controls about half the population. The remainder is split fairly evenly between the Viet Cong and those in contested areas.

Significantly the roots of revolt are in the countryside where government control is weakest. In the contested areas, the Viet Cong normally maintains at a minimum local guerrilla bands, propaganda teams and a smooth intelligence system. On the government side, the contenders normally are isolated groups of militia living, and often dying, together with their families without venturing more than a few hundred yards from their wretched mud, log and barbed wire forts.

U.S. troops except for the Marines around Da Nang, have made little effort to extend their control much past their perimeter lines. The U.S. troops are a mobile strike force engaged in a war whose rules derive more from the Pacific naval campaign of World War II than land warfare.

Each side offers battle when it thinks it can win, aims at destroying the enemy unit rather than seizing land—and assumes that in the end, the rice paddies and jungle will fall by default to the force which destroys the other.

The air war, controversial element in the Viet Nam conflict, has greatly helped allied ground units. Thousands of allied troops probably owe their lives to the timely arrival of U.S. jets.

Air raids on North Viet Nam have proved far less effective. More than 500 planes a day have been launched against North Viet Nam and Laos to interdict North Viet Nam's supply lines and to smash ground units moving toward the battlefronts of the south.

A little more than a year ago the infiltration rate from the north was put at about 1,000 men a month.

As the figure soared past the 2,000-man-a-month mark and then 2,500, President Johnson ordered a vastly stepped-up aerial campaign. Despite more than the doubling the tons of bombs per day on the north, the infiltration rate continued to mount. It now runs about 6,000 men a month. Last April the rate peaked at about 10,000 men.

There is scant evidence that the reduced rate is due to American bombing. A more logical answer is that Hanoi doesn't feel the need to maintain the higher rate.

The new phase of the air war has included hammering petroleum storage sites outside Hanoi and Haiphong, a B-52 strike against the north to close a mountain pass on the Laotian border and repeated strikes in the supposedly demilitarized zone at the 17th Parallel along the Ben Hai River.

In May an Air Force spokesman announced that American bombers had severed all major supply routes leading to Hanoi. A separate announcement said later 90 per cent of the north's capacity for storing gasoline and oil had been knocked out.

Still later a U.S. spokesman in Saigon was quoted as saying "the sight of south-bound trucks has increased appreciably."

Using tens of thousands of coolies, Hanoi had been able to repair and reroute its supply system.

Although acknowledging that the raids have not severed the lines of communication and infiltration routes, the U.S. command sees the situation as measurably worse if the jets were called off.

Political decisions so far have saved Hanoi and Haiphong. The decision was based on the assumption that destruction of the cities would not be worth militarily the price in adverse world opinion and perhaps in direct intervention by the Red Chinese.

The Navy and Air Force deliberately stuck to so-called "pure military targets" in the north to avoid civilian casualties. But in the south, where the enemy deliberately mixes itself with the population, a massive toll is taken among civilians by artillery and aircraft. There are estimates that up to 5,000 civilians die each month, with 10,000 wounded. No official figures are available.

Since the beginning of the American involvement in the war, some 5,500 U.S. troops have been killed in action and more than 20,000 wounded. Significantly 3,600 of the American dead fell in the first 10 months of this year. The rate is about 100 a week now.

Additionally, 1,200 U.S. deaths are classified as accidental. South Vietnamese regulars and militiamen have suffered more than 50,000 dead over-all. The U.S. command estimates that up to 40,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese regulars have been slain this year alone. But this figure is known to contain a large share of civilians.

After a battle all the dead other than allied troops are counted as enemy, even women and children.

So far this year, South Vietnamese regulars and militiamen have lost nearly 7,000 killed, far fewer than last year. Most of the casualties now are among militiamen. The reason is that American troops, and to a lesser extent other non-Vietnamese allies, have taken all the most dangerous offensive roles.

In the air war, the United States has lost more than 400 warplanes plus three helicopters over North Viet Nam and some 750,000 American troops are committed, the job will take five years to accomplish. The optimists, including Premier Ky—at least publicly—say that the major fighting and problems may be over next year.

The pessimists also argue that Hanoi's repeated rejection of U.S. peace overtures made directly and through other governments, shows it is convinced time is on its side and that a peace conference should be held only to accept the enemy's surrender.

Even if the Communist side does enter into peace negotiations that halt the fighting in South Viet Nam, this view holds, the South will have to deal with a Communist political force that is the largest organized bloc in the country.

Since peace talks would presumably include removal of both American and North Vietnamese forces from the South, this could leave a shaky government and ineffective military to deal with a situation they have so far proved incapable of handling.

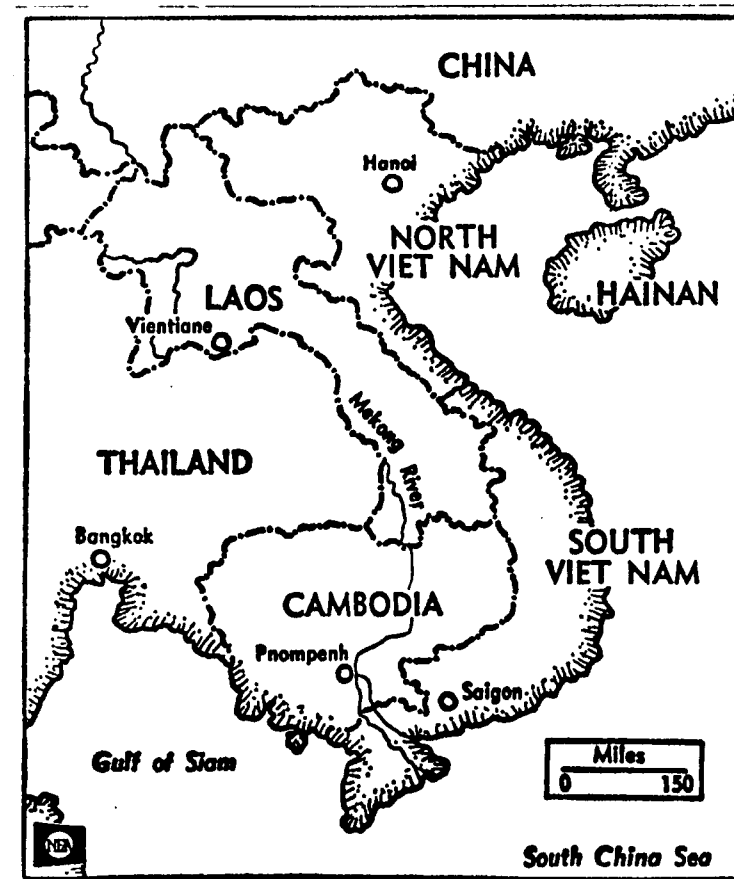

Those looking on the dark side think Hanoi will see it as a blow to Johnson's policies if his party loses a sizable block of congressional seats Nov. 8—even though such losses are a pattern in off-year elections.

Another major theme among the pessimists is that even if there is no direct Chinese intervention in the war, and even if

Where, When Will It End?

What is the outlook, and what are the chances for peace? Obviously no answer to that can be as simple as the question.

Aside from the moral suasion that Secretary-General U Thant has tried to offer, the United Nations has shown no effective and sure route to the peace table. The United Nations is supposed to help insure world security, but it is not powerful enough to act in a situation that lines up two major powers—the United States and the Soviet Union—on opposite sides.

In Viet Nam each side seems to believe that it is fighting a war of attrition that will force the enemy to quit.

Realism probably lies somewhere between the views of those who, for want of a better description, may be called "optimists" and "pessimists."

The optimists argument goes this way:

As the allied offensive builds up, forcing the enemy troops ever deeper into the jungle mountains and swamps, the military threat may simply fade away as it did before British arms in Malaya.

With an apparently stable government in Saigon moving forward at least limited popular rule, the peasants will realize their interests will be served best by the anti-Communist side.

The chances for peace, the optimists believe, are good as soon as Hanoi become convinced that the United States, unlike France, has the determination and power to get its way.

They argue that as China increasingly isolates itself from the outside world, including the Communist bloc, a U.S. peace offensive will bear fruit.

Their argument also includes the view that Hanoi has grossly misread student and other war protest movements in the United States as representing the nation's mood.

They feel that the results of the U.S. election Nov. 8 will shock Hanoi into a reassessment of its stand. This in turn will clear away the Soviet opposition and open the way for a new Geneva peace conference.

On the other hand, the pessimists believe the United States is being drawn into an ever-enlarging war that probably will end in direct confrontation with Red China. Peking has staked its international prestige on wars of national liberation as the true road of communism. The Chinese, the pessimists say, cannot afford to see North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong defeated because this could mean permanent U.S. bases on the Asian mainland.

The pessimists also argue that Hanoi's repeated rejection of U.S. peace overtures made directly and through other governments, shows it is convinced time is on its side and that a peace conference should be held only to accept the enemy's surrender.

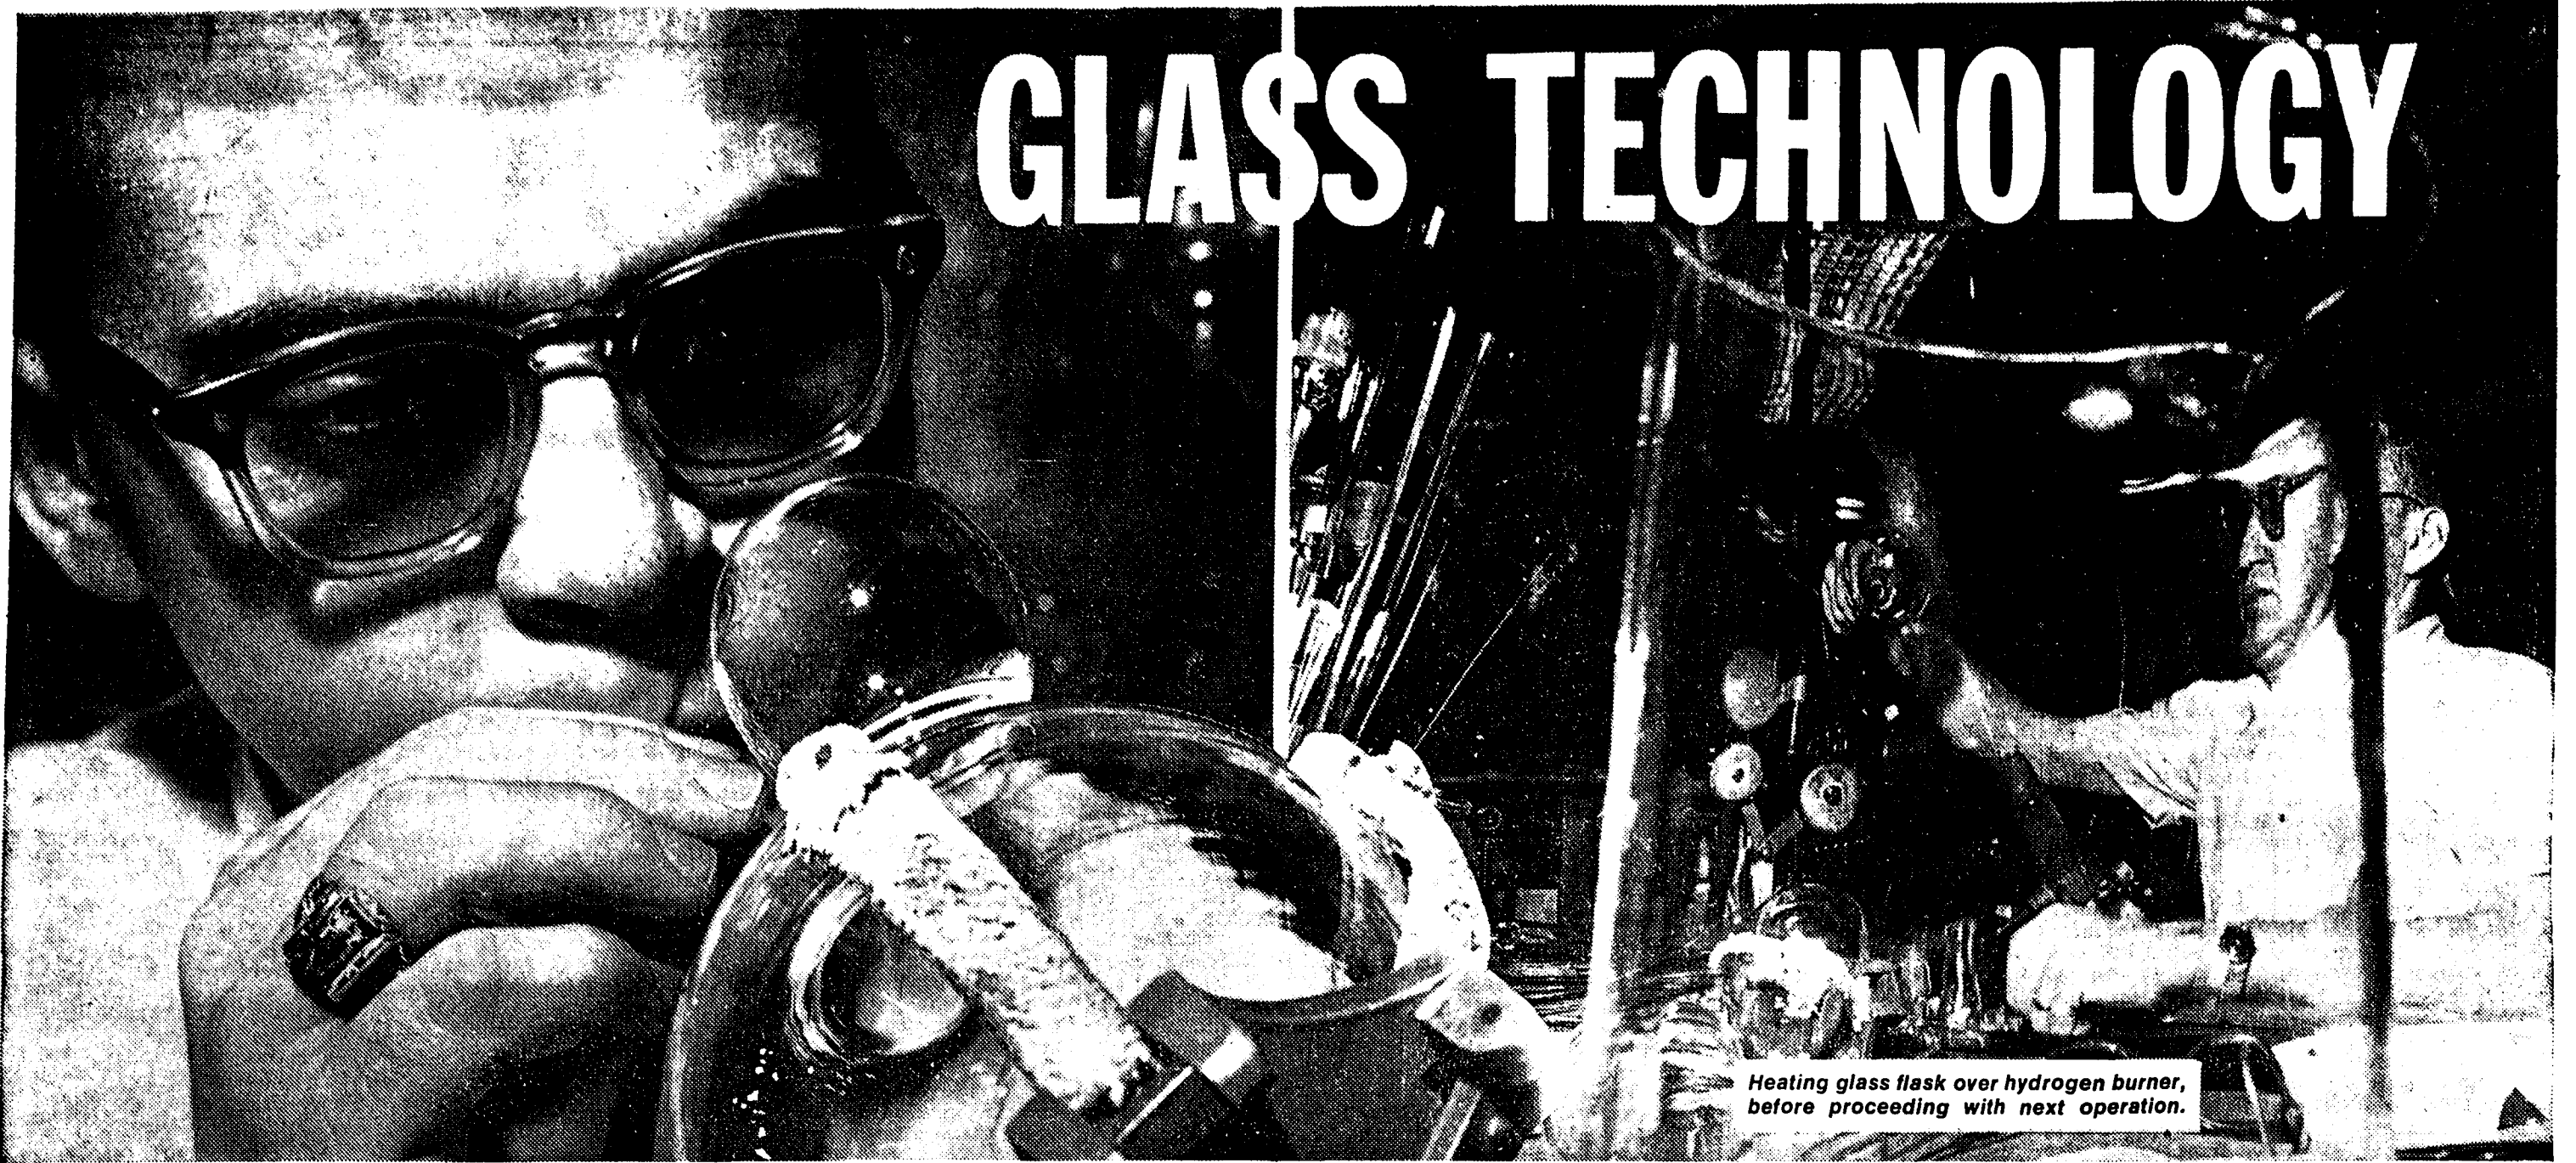

Even if the Communist side does enter into peace negotiations that halt the fighting in South Viet Nam, this view holds, the South will have to deal with a Communist political force that is the largest organized bloc in the country.

Since peace talks would presumably include removal of both American and North Vietnamese forces from the South, this could leave a shaky government and ineffective military to deal with a situation they have so far proved incapable of handling.

GLASS, TECHNOLOGY

Heating glass flask over hydrogen burner, before proceeding with next operation.

Modern man, in search of new ways of doing his job quicker, constantly develops new methods to help him toward this goal.

Even in the ancient art of shaping glass, new mass production methods like automatic molds, drills and grinders help speed production.

But not so at the Glass Technology Laboratory at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis where the 2,000-year-old method of glass blowing is still used for both instruction and production.

Glass forming works on the principle that when glass is heated, it can by various methods be formed into any shape the worker wants. The shaping method runs from the automated variety used by many of today's glass manufacturers to the oldest and most basic technique, used by the University.

At the University they begin with various sizes and shapes of glass already commercially produced, seal one end to make it air tight and place a hose in the other end. The part of the glass to be shaped is heated over a hydrogen burner to make it soft. When it is pliable the worker blows through the hose into the tube until the heated glass bulges outward. A paddle-shaped tool made of carbon is used to reform or take off excess glass.

Under the direction of its manager, Marvin Dynes, the University glass laboratory custom builds and repairs all specialized glass instruments needed by the school and does research and development on new glass products.

The laboratory is student-staffed. Each student attends required University courses leading to a degree in glass technology. The more advanced students work on research and development, while beginning students learn basic glass techniques by working on smaller, routine glass orders.

Sooners Fall Before Top Rated Club

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Mighty Notre Dame slammed into Oklahoma with a crushing football defense and an opportunistic offense and butchered the previously undefeated Sooners, 38-0, Saturday.

A partisan homecoming crowd of 63,439 — largest ever to see a football game in Oklahoma — sat in dismay as Ara Parsegian's No. 1 ranked Irish exploded after a scoreless first quarter.

The Notre Dame first string did not play after the third quarter.

Oklahoma, ranked 10th nationally after winning four for new coach Jim Mackenzie, was beaten into submission by a vicious Irish defense.

The Notre Dame offense didn't get uncorked until the second quarter, but when it did it ripped into the Sooners for 17 points in the second quarter, 21 in the third.

When Parsegian pulled out his starters after Notre Dame's fifth touchdown late in the third, Oklahoma had gained only 91 yards total offense. The Sooners finished the game with 158 yards only 39 of them rushing.

The Irish defense turned the ball over to the offense for drives of 79 and 54 yards for the first scores, but then the Irish scored on drives of 21, 40, 18 and 12 yards.

Vidmer, Clancy Lead Michigan To 49-0 Runaway

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's Dick Vidmer passed Minnesota dizzy and Jack Clancy caught two long touchdown throws as the aroused Wolverines slaughtered Minnesota 49-0 in the battle for football's Little Brown Jug Saturday.

Vidmer's passing was sharp, the Wolverine runners fleet and the defense virtually immovable in Michigan's entertainment of a Homecoming crowd of 71,000 with its first Big Ten victory this year.

It was the worst beating ever administered in the 60 years of struggle for the famed jug. Michigan scored twice in 32 seconds, the first and second times the Wolverines had the ball.

Score First Time

Minnesota punted after being unable to move with the first kickoff and the Wolverines drove 67 yards in 12 plays to score. Carl Ward got 22 yards on a run and Vidmer hit Clancy twice for a total of 16 yards. Jim Detwiler smashed one yard for his first of two touchdowns.

Minnesota took the next kickoff, couldn't move on two passes and a run and kicked. Rick Sygar gathered it in on the Michigan 43 and raced 57 yards down the sidelines for a touchdown.

The Wolverines turned it into a rout in the second period. Vidmer hit Clancy with a pass from the Minnesota 24 and the big end made a great catch, clipped away from a defender and scored. The play capped an 80-yard march in 14 tries.

The next time it took the Wolverines 11 plays to go 60 yards. With a fourth and two from the Minnesota 19, Dave Fisher ripped 11 yards to the Minnesota eight. Vidmer hit Carl Ward with a five-yarder for the score.

OSU Ends Skein, Takes 24-13 Edge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State broke loose for two touchdowns in the final quarter to snap a three-game losing streak with a 24-13 Big Ten football victory over Wisconsin Saturday.

The visiting Badgers managed a touchdown for the first time since the opening game, but could not contain the Buckeye blend of passes by Bill Long and driving runs by Bo Rein and Paul Hudson.

The key play was a fumble which halted Wisconsin at the Buckeye 19, the Badgers' deepest penetration except for the scoring march.

Wisconsin led 13-10 when Dick Himes grabbed John Wood's bobble.

The Buckeyes drove 81 yards to go ahead 17-13. Rein and Long getting most of the yardage. They sealed the victory with a 50-yard scoring march after a pass interception.

Hudson Scores All Three

Hudson scored all three Ohio touchdowns, from 2, 6, and 8 yards out. Gary Cairns added three extra points and a 40-yard field goal. Wisconsin's first touchdown in 313 minutes of play came when John Boyajian, who went all the way at quarterback, hit Tom Jankowski with a six-yard aerial. Tom Schinke booted the point. He also hit field goals of 40 and 47 yards, but missed on a 47-yard try, his first failure of the year.

Wisconsin never got inside the Ohio 20 until its touchdown with 3:06 in the third quarter. But the Badgers contained Ohio State until the final period, allowing only one Buckeye penetration past the 50 in the first half and stopping a third quarter threat at the 10.

Good Passing Game

Boyajian passed effectively, mostly to Tom McCauley and Bill Yanakos, but the Badgers again were unable to show a running attack.

The Buckeyes, by contrast, used Rein and Hudson on sweeps and smashes to balance Long's sharp passing to end Bill Anders and a half dozen other receivers.

Another key play came on the 81-yard Buckeye drive. Wisconsin halted Anders just short of a first down after a pass at the Badger 31. But Hudson rammed ahead for three yards on fourth-and-inches to set up his score three plays later.

John Fill's interception at the 50 with about four minutes to play sealed the Badger fate and set up the bonus Buckeye tally.

The Badgers have never won in Ohio Stadium, haven't won in Columbus since 1918, and haven't beaten the Buckeyes since 1951.

Tech Roms 35-17 Over Tulane

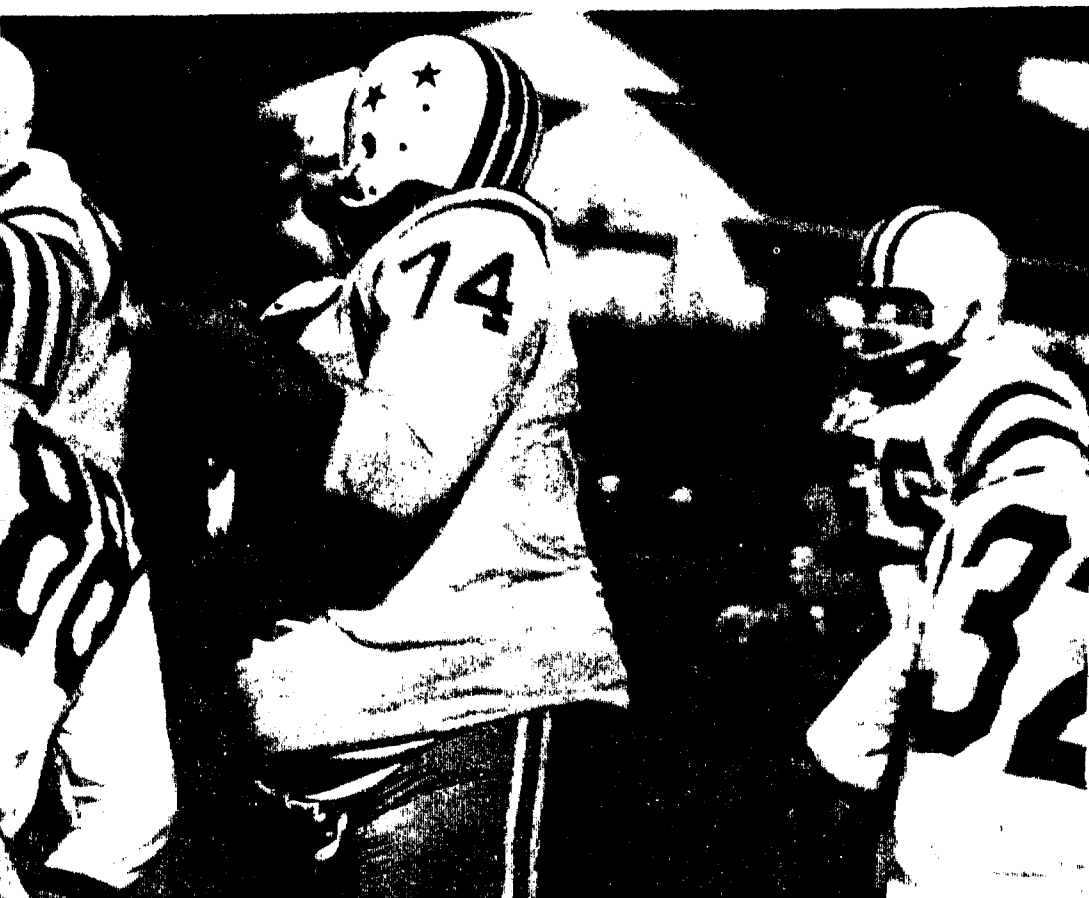

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Georgia Tech's Bill Eastman raced 99 yards with an intercepted pass to pace the sixth-ranked Yellow Jackets to a 35-17 victory over Tulane Green Wave Saturday.

Eastman picked off Tulane quarterback Bobby Duhon's pass just short of the goal and threaded his way along the sideline for the score.

Seconds later Tech back Giles Smith grabbed a throw by Tulane's Warren Bankston and went 40 yards for a touchdown that put the game out of reach.

Trailing 21-0 early in the fourth period, Tulane moved to the Tech seven and seemed about to put the squeeze on the nationally ranked Yellow Jackets. But Eastman's interception and run ended that threat.

In another day and age, the 1966 World Series would have been indelibly inscribed as the one Willie Davis lost in the sun. Instead, Willie emerged gracefully as a mere mortal, for which he can thank teammate Maury Wills. In the Dodgers' dressing room, after Willie made his three errors in one inning, Wills insisted that Davis go out and meet the press like a man, instead of ducking out like another Dodger advised.

Barron Hilton, whose piece of the San Diego Chargers is now down to 20 per cent, has divided that slice with his dad, Conrad—10 per cent apiece.

Keith Lincoln, the versatile San Diego Charger back who suddenly found himself playing second string early this season, figures it's the San Diego taxi squad which makes the Chargers stronger than other teams.

"Taxi squad" is a euphemism for released players who are kept around for emergency duty, and Coach Sid Gillman always has a dozen on hand. "They're young, green, have great potential," says Lincoln, "and they're important to this team." They also keep him hustling for his job.

Keith Lincoln

Outspoken Keith also says, "I know I'm going to have two or three more good years in professional football whether it's for the San Diego Chargers or some other team."

John Brodie of the San Francisco 49ers doesn't buy the idea that defensive teams are out to get the quarterback. "Personally," he says, "I think quarterbacks are less vulnerable than they've ever been because 'protect the quarterback at all costs' seems to be in effect. I don't think they ought to put in any special rules because they'd take away the ability that a quarterback has to have in order to be great." Meaning that scrambling from tacklers is part of the act.

It's a virtual cliché that the players will move out of Kezar Stadium after this season and into Candlestick Park, home of the baseball Giants, with the outfield fences to be enclosed as an anti-wind factor for both sports.

Jerry Hoffberger, the owner of the Baltimore Orioles, was also an original stockholder in the world lightweight title.

the Colts when professional football first came to Crabtown with the old All-America Conference in 1947. Now he goes for live steeds and has his own stable of horses right on the Hoffberger estate. The morning after the Orioles won the World Series in four straight, Mrs. Hoffberger went out to the barns, picked out the likeliest young colt and pinned a sign on the stall: "1968 Preakness Winner."

One man who's not all hopped up about the long delayed Hart Sports Bill as the panacea for all professional sports is Marvin Miller, the new director of the Baseball Players Association.

A convert to the cause of the AFL, besides drawing his paycheck there, is Bernie Parrish, the ex-Cleveland Brown defender who joined Houston. "The NFL might be in for a surprise," says Parrish, referring to a possible championship game. "It could be like the old Cleveland Browns coming over from the All-America Conference. I heard this league lacks depth, but from what I've seen it doesn't. The offense is more imaginative, and you can't categorize the receivers."

George Sauer Jr., one of those "uncategorized" receivers, doesn't think it was a handicap to be the son of a Hall of Famer (his dad was a great fullback at Nebraska). Dad gave the New York Jets flunker a lot of help—besides being the Jets' chief scout.

Elorde Defends Title Easily In 15 Rounds

MANILA (AP) — Gabriel (Flash) Elorde, of Manila, leisurely defended his world junior lightweight title Saturday night by defeating Vicente Derado, of Argentina, in a 15-round fight which the 25,000 spectators apparently thought was more lopsided than did the officials.

Two judges voted for Elorde, now successful in 10 defenses of the crown he won six years ago, by narrow margins and a third held it a draw. Neither fighter was knocked down and midway in the bout the fans began chanting for more action.

Elorde battered Derado about the head and face early in the middle rounds and then came on strong again at the end. He weighed 130 pounds, the division limit, to 128 for Derado.

Derado, whose timing was off, had suffered from cuts above and below both eyes from the fifth round on. The champion never appeared to be hurt.

In his dressing room after the bout, the Argentine wept and said he felt he had won the title because "all these cuts on my face were caused by butts. Elorde knew he was beaten and became desperate."

Elorde is expected to meet Carle, 24½ in New York's Madison Square Garden this winter.

4th Quarter TDs Save Second Win

By BUFORD GREEN

Illinois College fired up after giving up the lead in the final quarter and withstood a 100-yard interception return by Culver-Stockton's Chris Balawender in the closing seconds to post a 28-23 homecoming victory over the Wildcats, in an action-packed contest before a crowd of 2,000 Saturday afternoon.

The Blueboys, who led from the first quarter until early in the fourth period, dominated the remainder of the final stanza, getting key interceptions by Don Boyer and running star Tom Rowland.

Culver's Balawender picked off a pass from frosh quarterback Dave Barr on the Wildcats' goal line with 19 seconds left in the game and romped untouched 100 yards to six points that ended the scoring of the afternoon. There were a total of eight interceptions in the tilt, that broke a three-game losing streak by the host Blueboys.

IC so dominated the second half that they picked up 16 of their 21 first downs in the two quarters, and ran off 40 plays to only 21 by the eventual losers.

A strong running attack by the Blueboys was the deciding factor in the contest with the exception of the eight interceptions, four by each team.

IC ground out 325 net rushing yards. Rowland was the rushing star of the afternoon, despite being partially hampered by a knee injury. The junior halfback from Rushville reeled off 129 yards in 16 carries.

Culver took a 16-14 lead early in the final 15 minutes, as halfback Bob Hutton picked off a Bucky Sullivan pass on the Culver 45 and ran it back to the 17. Culver scored five plays later to take the lead with 12:05 left to play.

Blueboys Aroused

The then aroused Blueboys came right back to march 47 yards in 12 plays to retake the advantage. Halfback Phil Snowden started the spurge by returning the kick off 37 yards to the Culver 45, and had a clear field but came out of the pack off balance and fell.

Waverly junior fullback Larry Herrick was the running star in the scoring drive that put IC back on top, carrying the ball on six straight plays from the 24 to the two of Culver.

After Herrick busted to the two, a five-yard motion penalty nullified a Herrick score, moving the ball back to seven. A pass interference call on Culver put the ball back to the two and Sullivan lunged over on the next play. Garth Cripe, who booted three of three extra points for the drive, connected to give IC a 21-16 advantage with 7:43 showing.

Boyer Stalls Drive

Boyer, sophomore from Franklin, picked off a Ken Williams pass on the IC 38 and returned it to the Culver 48 to set up another Blueboy score on the following series.

A face mask penalty on Culver and good gainers by Rowland and Sullivan moved the ball to the seven from where Snowden took a pitch out from Sullivan and raced around right end untouched for a 28-16 difference with only 3:20 left.

Rowland picked off another Williams pass six plays later to stall another Culver drive. From there, Illinois College started what appeared to be another scoring march, moving over their own 42 to Culver six, with Rowland again doing the damage. Barr tried a pass on first down with 19 seconds left only to have Balawender pick the ball off and have only daylight between him and the IC goal.

Culver Dominate First

With Williams hitting short passes and halfback Bob Vashinko running the Blueboys ragged, Culver-Stockton dominated the opening quarter of play although IC held a 7-0 margin at the close of the chapter.

Vashinko, who rushed for 112 yards in 23 carries, mostly in the first half, continually got good yardage around the Blue-boys ends.

Twice in the quarter IC came up with defensive gems to stop long Culver drives. Beardstown freshman Doug Hardwick knocked down a crucial fourth down pass and Snowden intercepted a pass on the Illinois College 37.

IC took the 7-0 lead with 62-yard drive that took only seven plays. Sullivan kept for ten and Rowland and Snowden each rushed for 110 yards in the carried twice for good yardage to the Culver 35, where Rowland broke off tackle and outdistanced the Culver secondary 1-31.

for the initial score of the game, with 6:13 to play in the period.

Cripe Intercepts Pass

Cripe, a 295-pound senior defensive tackle from Astoria, picked off a Culver aerial at the Illinois three and lumbered back to the 37 before being swarmed. Culver got off 30 plays in the frame to only nine and by IC.

Charles Grojean, Steve Gaudio and Terri Hammers each scored two touchdowns to lead the scoring parade, that leaves the young Crimson with a perfect 6-0 record to date.

Grojean galloped 23 yards and Gaudio romped 73 yards for first period scores, with Hammers running both extra points.

In the second frame Gaudio hauled in a pass from Mounts for a 22-yard scoring effort, and Hammers was on the receiving end of a Mounts TD pass that covered 19 yards. Tom Megginson set up the score with a fumble recovery.

Mounts hit Hammers again in the third period, from 23 yards out, and Grojean lunged one yard for a pair of touchdowns. Mounts ran one PAT.

and Rodney Simonds booted the other in the quarter.

The final score of the day came when Mounts intercepted a Lanphier pass and returned it 40 yards to paydirt.

Co-captains Gaudio and John Wilson led the defensive effort by the Crimson, with Bob Fitzsimmonds playing an out-

The Newcomer's 1848 series and a 663 game by the Lane Brains rated as weekly highs. League high average Sue Crouse (160) rolled the high game—222.

Marlene Gillis' spectacular 241 game, coupled with a 176 and 186 for a 603 series, set new individual highs in Jacksonville Merchants League play Tuesday.

Agan's Oil notched high game and series figures on 758, 843 and 755—2356 rollings. W.J.L. had their circuit lead cut to 1/2 game, during the action, via a 1-2 outing.

Crown Finance and Don's Gulf moved into a tie for the Town and Country League lead Wednesday night, two games out in front of previous standing-toppers Budweiser and Cox Buck.

Crown Finance grabbed high game and series figures on 988 and 2622 counts, while Marty Burke's 590 series and a 241 effort by Norman Grey also rated as high.

Detroit Pistons

FORWARD — Dave DeBusschere, the player-coach (16.4)

Ray Scott (17.9) more than adequate. DeBusschere continually amazes with his rebounding hustle. John Tresvant, Bill Buntin weak reserves. —RATING—B—

CENTER — Reggie Harding is back after year's suspension. He's 7-0, his moves are a bit crude, but he's not easy to push around (as the Detroit police learned). He'll definitely help. Joe Strawder, last year's starter, is No. 2. RATING—C+.

BACKCOURT — Eddie Miles was the leading scorer (19.6) for Pistons last season. His improvement has been 100 per cent. This year he'll be joined by Dave Bing, Tom Van Arsdale, a 10.5 rookie. Charley Vaughn adds experience. Ron Reed hustle. RATING—B—

SUMMARY — Harding, Bing make Pistons a sounder team. By next year, when Terry Disinger gets out of service, it should be even better. Need help in frontcourt to relieve DeBusschere, Scott. Prediction —4th.

Los Angeles Lakers

FORWARD — Elgin Baylor supposedly is healthy. He played well at the end of last season, at times looking like the Baylor of old. He and Rudy LaRusso work perfectly together after all these years. Jim Barnes (12.4) will be available if anything happens to Elgin. RATING—A.

CENTER — The Laker offense is the best in the league considering it doesn't depend on the center. Darrall Imhoff is No. 1 now that Gene Wiley, a good defensive man, has retired. Henry Finkel, the leithand-ed rookie from Dayton, will have to go both ways. If he can, he would be valuable. He's 6-11. RATING—C.

BACKCOURT — Jerry West, if you can believe it, is still improving. He averaged 31.4 last year, was fourth in assists. Walt Hazzard (13.7) had a good year and Gail Goodrich improved as the season progressed. RATING—A.

ROOKIES — Jerry Chambers, a forward from Utah, has a good shot, but is quite thin. John Black, a center from USC will get a chance at center. Fred Wetzel, VPI, Archie Clark, Minnesota, may stick in backcourt.

SUMMARY — Center can't really be considered a problem because the Lakers have adjusted to playing without a quality man for years now. They still win. Baylor, West, LaRusso carry the team. Hazzard was a big help last year. Still the West's best. Prediction —1st.

Fumbled Punt Leads To 6-3 Illini Loss

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Stanford's Indians, taking advantage of a fumbled punt, scored on a six-yard touchdown run by Gene Washington and handed Illinois a 6-3 football defeat Saturday.

Early in the third quarter, with Illinois holding a meager 3-0 lead, Dave Lewis punted and Illinois, Mick Smith called for a fair catch. Smith then jumped away, but the ball hit him and Phil Messer recovered for Stanford on the Illini 14.

Work-horse fullback Jack Root pounded to the one-yard line in five plays, but the Indians were hit with a five-yard penalty to the six.

Washington threw an incomplete pass, but on the next play he kept the ball and went around left end for the game's only touchdown.

Listless Game

It was a listless game, before an Illini homecoming crowd of 56,561, except for the two scoring plays.

Four times in the first half, Illinois failed to get first downs on fourth-down situations, but finally got on the scoreboard with 15 seconds left in the first half on a 26-yard field goal by Jim Stolz.

The field goal drive started in the Illini 22 and was kept alive mainly on the passing of Bob Naponic to end John Wright. Naponic and Wright collaborated on three passes for 33 yards in the 78-yard march.

The drive bogged down on the Stanford nine and Stolz booted his field goal.

Wright picked off 11 passes for 105 yards which made up most of the Illini offense, except for a 45-yard run by little Billy Huston in the first half which took Illinois out of the hole.

Passing Threat

Stanford's big threat, beyond Root's pounding line plunges, was the passing combination of Washington to end Bob Conrad. However, the Indians never could get any drive assembled.

Other Indian threats came in the first half when Bill Shoemaker attempted a 61-yard field goal which fell short, and an end zone pass which was intercepted by Bruce Sullivan.

After Washington put Stanford ahead, Illinois came up with one serious threat. Lewis punted out on the Illini 46 and Illinois marched all the way to the Stanford seven with the big play gaining 22 yards on a Naponic keeper.

Doug Harford, however, was tossed for a six-yard loss and, after an incomplete pass, Illinois was penalized 15 to the Indian 28 killing the drive.

Nebraska Rally Allows Slim 21-19 Edge Over Buffs

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Quarterback Bob Churchich rallied seventh-ranked Nebraska for two touchdowns in the last quarter one in the final minute — to overtake Colorado 21-19 in a Big Eight Conference game Saturday.

Trailing 19-7 at halftime, the unbeaten Cornhuskers blunted the rollout runs and passes of Colorado quarterback Dan Kelly and turned over the game control to Churchich. The 170-pound quarterback took the Nebraska on a 71-yard trip to the Colorado one late in the third quarter, but the Buffaloes sneared him on two plays as he tried to make the final yard.

NEW YORK (AP) — The world champion Baltimore Orioles placed outfielder Frank Robinson, first baseman Boog Powell and third baseman Brooks Robinson on The Associated Press' 1966 Major League All-Star Team otherwise dominated by National Leaguers.

Ramos Cops Title In Confused Fight

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Sugar Ramos was awarded the world lightweight championship Saturday night after a confused and protest-filled title fight with champion Carlos Ortiz.

Ortiz had been awarded a technical knockout when the referee stopped the fight at 1:45 of the fifth round. But the ring doctor said Ramos was able to continue and ordered the fight resumed.

Ortiz, the 30-year-old champion from New York, stalked from the ring and refused. After a 10-minute wait, Ramos, still bleeding from a deep cut over his left eye, was named the new champion.

Ramon G. Valazquez, secretary of the World Boxing Council, said he was awarding the fight to Ramos, along with the world title. He said he was acting under the laws of Mexico, and that the purses of Ortiz and the referee, former world light heavyweight champion Billy Conn, were being withheld.

After a surprisingly close fight, Conn stopped it and gave it to Ortiz on a technical knockout. Ortiz immediately left the ring under protests from the crowd.

Republican Campaign Stop Next Saturday Honors Harris Rowe

The "Percy Special," a three-car Republican campaign train will arrive in Jacksonville next Saturday at 2:45 p.m. to honor Harris Rowe of Jacksonville, candidate for State Treasurer.

Rowe's official campaign visit will be the last in his hometown before the November 8th general election. Aboard the special will be Republican candidate for U.S. Senator Charles H. Percy, Superintendent of Public Instruction Roy Page, 20th District Congressman Paul Findley and Thomas C. Rose, candidate for state representative.

The campaign train will leave Springfield at 2:05 p.m. and arrive in Jacksonville at 2:45 p.m. Saturday. The train will leave at 3:05 p.m. for Quincy.

Church Street Crossing
Jacksonville area residents will meet the campaign special at the Church Street crossing on the Norfolk and Western (Wabash) Railroad. The rear platform car from which the state candidates will speak will be halted at the east side of Church Street.

Residents will hear the candidates from the area just east of the crossing. Most of the standing room is paved. County and district candidates who do not arrive on the special train will be introduced starting at 2:30 p.m. from a temporary platform.

Musical entertainment will be provided by a band under the direction of John Specht, music instructor at Illinois College.

Trains as campaign vehicles are somewhat dated with the advent of airplanes and mass media communications but next Saturday's rally may roll the clock back for many residents.

General Telephone Company will install a battery of long distance telephones at Church street to take care of the newsmen on the campaign junket.

The old Wabash depot has been torn down but the rally may bring memories for residents who can remember when Jacksonville had as many as a dozen or more trains running daily on the Wabash.

Twenty-Six Years Ago
The last politician who stopped in Jacksonville, campaigning by train, was Republican presidential candidate Wendell Willkie, October 18, 1940.

The "Willkie Special" brought 15 cars to the newly-painted Wabash depot at 6:50 p.m., 40 minutes late, into a crowd estimated between 7,000 and 10,000 persons.

Police Chief Frank Kiloran called it the "heaviest traffic ever handled."

The train, which also carried state candidates, included 12 pullmans, two diners, a baggage car, and 40 newsmen. Willkie spoke for ten minutes, long enough for pick-pockets to lift $173 from unsuspecting members of the crowd.

Appearing with Willkie on the rear platform of the train were Dwight Green, candidate for governor; C. Wayland Brooks, candidate for U.S. senator; Warren Wright of Murrayville, candidate for state treasurer; Hardin Hanks of Beardstown, candidate for congressman from the 20th district; Miss Jean Wieble of Mt. Pulaski, president of the 300 member MacMurray college Willkie club, and Mrs. Willkie.

Gail B. Ranson, chairman of the Morgan County Republican central committee, said that Willkie's train traversed the same route taken by Abraham Lincoln in 1861 when Lincoln left Springfield en route to Washington and the presidency.

Saturday, one of the candidates aboard the "Percy Special" will be Harris Rowe, seeking the position of state treasurer.

In November's JOURNAL COURIER editions of 1940, there was a picture of a young man, then a student at Jacksonville High School, preparing to attend a state high school chorus concert at Champaign-Urbana.

Who was he?
Harris Rowe.

ST. LOUIS PAPER ENDORSES DOUGLAS

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Post-Dispatch endorsed Saturday night the re-election of U.S. Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., in his race against Republican Charles H. Percy.

"The fundamental question for Illinois voters is whether a great and sturdy force for liberalism in economic policy and social relations shall be eliminated from the Senate," the newspaper said in an editorial appearing in its Sunday edition.

The paper said it disagreed with Douglas' views on Viet Nam, but said he is "not a mover and shaker in foreign affairs." The Post-Dispatch said that it is in the area of civil rights, economic policy, finance, housing, urban problems and area redevelopment that Douglas is entitled to be judged.

"The kind of young, forward-looking, relatively liberal Republican we would like to see come to power in his party, especially in a state where the party organization is loaded with primitive right-wingers."

It said, however, that it was unconvinced that Percy's proposal for an Asian peace conference offered a firm alternative to administration policy or that Percy has "penetrating and coherent convictions on foreign policy."

Percy Has Varied Week As He Resumes Campaign

By F. RICHARD CICCONE

CHICAGO (AP) — Charles H. Percy finished his lunch amid the glow of flashing camera lights and stood smiling at the applause of his introduction. "I'm glad to be back," he said.

The brief luncheon speech Monday was Percy's return to the U.S. Senate campaign from three weeks of seclusion after his daughter, Valerie, was clubbed and stabbed to death in her bed Sept. 18.

On Oct. 6, Republican Percy made a brief announcement that he would continue his campaign against Paul H. Douglas, the Democratic three-term incumbent.

"It is simply a matter of choosing the best man to be senator," Percy said.

But to many voters there was also the question of the impact of Valerie's death — its effect on the election and on Percy's ability to sustain a strenuous, successful campaign.

The first week of the regenerated campaign was not a hectic period of speeches and crowd-greeting. It was a carefully paced attempt at regaining the rapport between Percy and his potential supporters.

It was a week of contrasts.

There was Percy, the bereaved parent, quoting a Biblical passage to explain his return to the hustings.

Percy, the candidate, spoke before a labor group from a platform decorated with placards endorsing Douglas.

"I guess I'm working the wrong side of the street," he joked.

Percy, answering a question about the police investigation, said, "The investigation has priority for me and my family."

At a Northwestern University sorority house, Percy sipped coffee and sat Indian-style on the floor with more than 100 coeds.

"Was I right in speaking about Viet Nam? Is that your biggest interest?"

Finally, there was the coroner's inquest where Percy spoke of Valerie:

"She was the embodiment of freshness and sweetness." Through the week Percy's manner was crisp, confident, cheerful.

Seemingly, nothing had changed in the campaign attitudes of the former chairman of Bell & Howell who earned political recognition in his unsuccessful gubernatorial bid in 1964.

At the Monday luncheon, Percy quoted from the Bible:

"There is a time to be born and a time to die, a time to dance and a time to mourn, a time to keep silent and a time to speak. Now is the time to speak."

His speech concerned the two items which Percy feels are the important issues — inflation and Viet Nam. In response to an audience question, Percy denied the implication that he was offering voters a youthful candidate whose platform does not differ from that of Douglas.

"The differences are issues, not personalities," he said.

At Northwestern, where he wooed a student group of 1,500 with his declaration that peace should be made in Viet Nam, he also alluded to the "youthful and dynamic leadership" of the Republican party.

To the coeds, Percy explained, "We don't have a two-party system, in effect we have a four-party system with liberals and conservatives in each party pulling toward the middle.

"This results in evolution, not revolution."

In Joliet, where Percy spoke to the Will County Federation of Labor, nearly all the listeners wore green and white Douglas buttons.

Answering the group's questions with alacrity, Percy declared himself in favor of collective bargaining and minimum wage laws. He alluded to the profit-sharing plan he established at Bell & Howell.

He drew laughter when he said, "I'd be a union member if I weren't in the trade I am — an aspiring politician."

Thursday, Percy escorted his wife, Lorraine, 37, and Valerie's twin, Sharon, to the inquest at the Cook County morgue.

The coroner's jury ruled the murder was committed by an unidentified offender.

Percy was asked earlier in the week, "How do you feel, Chuck?"

He said, "As well as can be expected, I am determined to wage a meaningful and a winning campaign. I am going to travel as much of this state as I possibly can."

"However," he added, "I am going to spend every night with Albert Einstein, the famous physicist, became an American citizen in 1940."

Let's disregard the problem of the merit or lack thereof in West's two spade overcall. Suffice to say, practically all West players in a recent New Orleans tournament did make that bid. Those who were doubled went down three tricks for a 500-point loss and a rather poor score.

The reason was that when North bid three no-trump instead of doubling, West would open the ten of spades and South would win the trick with his queen. After that play there was no way to make the contract because West would get into the lead with both red aces and set up his spades before South could collect more than eight tricks.

Julius Rosenblum, the captain of the American bridge team, was one of the few declarers to make three no-trump. He let East's jack of spades hold the first trick. Julius was sure that West would have both red aces and a six-card spade suit for his overcall. His analysis was correct. East could not return a spade and Julius had time to set up both red suits.

Julius was lucky because he was not playing against Dr. Richard Greene. When Dick held the West hand he opened the king of spades, instead of the ten. This left South nowhere to go except down. If South ducked, Dick would still be able to lead another spade. If he won the trick, Dick would get back into the lead with his two red aces.

Dick's lead was sensational but that type of lead is one that experts always consider. It will cost a trick against some card combinations, but it was most effective this time.

A computer gone wild is the creation of British cartoonist Rowland Emmett for the special benefit of people who have never really been able to understand computers, anyway. Called the Honeywell-Emmett "Forget-Me-Not" (Peripheral Pachyderm) Computer, it features lights that shine, wheels that turn and pulleys move rhythmically. It's impressive, silent and best of all, does nothing.

The Honeywell-Emmett Computer is based in part on the well-known law of nature that an elephant (two of which are almost discernible in the sketch above) never forgets. It has special sections, such as memory Lane, which stores such vital material as Mother, First Love and Ancestral Home. The doors open and close discreetly to keep memories green. Unveiled in England, the comic creation is being shown in the United States by Honeywell, which also turns out a line of no-nonsense computers.

Cartoonist Rowland Emmett shows off his computer. The framework is bamboo, to fit discreetly into an executive's office. Components include several door-knobs, bits of decorative Indian brassware and a sugar bowl. Emmett gained fame as the creator and engineer-in-chief of the world's first Gothic railway—the Far Tottering and Oyston Creek—which for years delighted readers of Punch, Britain's famed humor magazine.

A Letter to the Voters of Morgan County

Dear Voters:

I am again a candidate for re-election as commissioner of Morgan County, having endeavored to serve you to the best of my ability in the past and will do my utmost to serve you as well or better in the future if you, the voters, see fit to re-elect me.

You have seen many times in the newspapers the achievements of our county, such as the improvement of our miles of highways, jail, county garage and courthouse, all being accomplished with no increase in county tax rate of which I am pleased in having a part.

Although I am only one of three commissioners serving you, if elected I pledge to meet any and all problems coming before the county board and act upon them in the best possible manner.

Being a taxpayer on both city and country property in this county always striving to hold a line on taxes for you, the voters.

I am thankful for your past efforts and humbly solicit any support you may give me in this forthcoming election, November 8, 1966.

Sincerely,

Harry E. THOMPSON

Are home visits by doctors a thing of the past? The answer is no, according to a study by the Health Insurance Institute covering a six-year period from 1958 through 1963. But home calls are declining in favor of office and clinic visits by patients, and the switch is most pronounced for older persons. Some reasons suggested by the Institute are increased mobility of the population, more outpatient facilities and steadily improving medical equipment which the doctor can't carry in his bag and must be used at a clinic or hospital.

A NEW ANTITANK WEAPON now in the engineering development stage can be carried anywhere a soldier can pack a rifle, yet has a warhead big enough to knock out most armor. Tagged the Medium Antitank/Assault Weapon (MAW) it is superior in range, accuracy and punch to the 90mm recoilless rifle which it is intended to replace.

Holy Cross Observes 70 Years Of Service

Children Cared For Thru Years

Tuesday afternoon, October 11, 1966, a bus transporting seventeen children from the Washington and Jefferson schools suddenly overturned.

Ambulances were immediately dispatched to the scene of the accident and the children were brought to two local hospitals in Jacksonville, Passavant and Holy Cross.

On October 22, 1896, three motherless children suffering from typhoid fever were brought to the only hospital in Jacksonville. Our Saviour's, now renamed Holy Cross.

This hospital had just come into being through the beneficence of Charles Routh, the availability of the former governor's mansion and the willingness of the Sisters of the Holy Cross to assume the responsibility of staffing it.

According to the early records a great many changes were necessary to convert the Richard Yates home into a hospital "installing toilets and bathtubs, preparing an operating room, and installing an elevator which is worked by electric power; the elevator alone costing one thousand dollars."

But, after much hard work the hospital was ready and the eight Sisters welcomed their first patients in the persons of these needy children.

Although this first house was small, 138 patients were cared for between the opening date and July 1, 1897.

Need For Room Grows
It soon became apparent that the hospital was growing and its needed additional space.

The Sisters appealed to William Routh, and in the tradition of the Routh family, he came to their aid with a generous contribution.

In October 1897 construction was begun on the first addition patients, taught the nurses, and gave material support to the hospital.

The chronicle states that one doctor purchased an electric bathtub for the hospital and that massage and electric baths were successful and frequent treatments.

A Ladies' Aid Society which was the forerunner in volunteer service of the present Holy Cross Auxiliary, gave generously of their time and at one period contributed sufficient canned and preserved fruit to serve the patients for six weeks.

Another Typhoid Epidemic
An epidemic of typhoid fever, in 1902, increased the number of patient admissions to 302. It lasted eight months during which time there were sometimes as many as fourteen cases in the hospital.

A training school was opened in 1908 but due to the scarcity of time, personnel and materials the first class of four nurses was able to graduate only in 1921.

Radiographic equipment was purchased in the Twenties but the services of a radiologist were not procured until many years later. Dr. Garm Norbury was the first physician to assume responsibility for the pathology department of the hospital.

In May 1921 the nurses' home was opened and two months later a second addition to the original building was begun. This was the only major construction undertaken until the F. A. Norris wing was constructed and the original buildings were razed.

The Hospital Today
No more vivid story of growth of services rendered to the community can be given than by comparing statistics for the last fifteen years.

These procedures have been accomplished with the most modern equipment obtainable in the hospital's surgery and its adequately furnished and staffed laboratory, X-ray and emergency room.

Skilled nursing, so essential to good patient care, is ably entrusted to a nursing staff consisting of registered nurses, licensed practical nurses, nurse and completed in May of the following year. It was three and two thirds stories high, contained all the modern conveniences of steam heating, gas and electric lights and cost approximately $10,000 to build.

Although there was no formal organized medical staff in those early days, approximately twenty doctors cared for the aides and orderlies under the direction of a director and two assistant directors of nursing service.

The hospital today is composed of an administrative team of professionally trained individuals. These religious and laymen are united in service to provide the best care possible for the sick of the community of Jacksonville and the surrounding areas.

The Hospital Tomorrow
Seventy years of selfless service have just been completed. On this foundation the hospital aims to build greater service for the future. The present physical structure of the F. A. Norris East wing and the newly renovated west wing offer one hundred and thirty beds to serve present patients' needs and those who may be future recipients of need.

The philosophy of Holy Cross hospital is to provide the best hospital care to the sick of the community.

SACKETTES MEET AT AMVET HOME

Sackette Unit #14 met Oct. 17 at the Amvet home with Sackette Lucy Stillwell presiding. The opening prayer was given by acting chaplain Martha Upchurch.

The story was read by Scribbling Irene Sanders. Fines were collected by the Stubbobest from members who were not wearing uniforms or auxiliary pins.

Three out of town members were presented for the fracas. They were Marguerite Wageman, Peoria; Jean French and Marjorie Winters, North Pekin. A drawing for prizes was held throughout the fracas.

Refreshments were served to the Sacks and Sackettes by the committee.

BATMAN ARRIVES AT HOLY CROSS—Little Tommy Flynn (r) get a chuckle out of Billy Mayes' Batman costume, while Sister Shelia Marie, head nurse of the medical and surgical department, checks on Tommy's condition.

THE SPACE AGE may soon be taking over children's fashions as well as the high style of the grown-up ladies. This model shown in New York features a see-through vinyl jumper over a knit jumpsuit appliqued with stars and moons.

OCCUPYING TIME IMPORTANT—Deanna Hoots, a patient in Holy Cross children's ward, occupies part of her stay at the hospital by painting Halloween decorations on windows in the ward. Getting young patients interested in projects during their stay in the hospital is an important function of the staff.

RECOVER FROM BUS MISHAP — Billy Mayes (l) and L. A. Jackson, two local youngsters injured in a school bus-car accident October 11, relax in their room at Holy Cross hospital, awaiting release.

Banking Topic At October Meeting Of Local ABWA

Twenty-one members of the College City Charter, American Business Women's Association, met Tuesday, October 4th at Hamilton's Restaurant. Following dinner program chairman Marjorie Hull introduced James Coultas, president of the Elliott National Bank, and Gilbert Todd, who discussed banking and those phases generally unknown to the public. As a part of their program, they showed a 20-minute film, "Banking: No limit to Dimensions." They concluded the program with announcement that in final celebration of Elliott's 100th anniversary the lobby will be decorated in the theme of an old-fashioned Christmas.

Mrs. Mary Parker, owner and operator of the Parker Sheltered Care Home, gave a vocational talk on her experiences and the requirements for maintaining a sheltered care home. Some interesting facts she discussed were that such a home must have doors of fireproof materials, exit lights, menus planned two weeks in advance, and must be able to meet inspection by the Health Department at any time.

Mrs. Jack Meyer, president pro-tem, conducted business. She congratulated members on fulfilling requirements and earning the Standard of Achievement award from national ABWA headquarters in Kansas City, Missouri.

The award will be officially presented to president Mary Virginia Brewer at the national American Business Women's Convention in Tulsa, Oklahoma, October 21st to the 23rd. College City Charter Chapter is represented in Tulsa by three local members: president Mary Virginia Brewer; treasurer and delegate Mrs. Carl Massey, and alternate delegate Miss Patsy Craig.

Mrs. Ruth White, corresponding secretary, read announcements, including the 1967 convention in Las Vegas. A rummage sale will be sponsored on October 31st behind the jail.

Mrs. Meyer appointed Mrs. Kristi Bertolotto as recording secretary in view of the resignation by Mrs. Dorothy Brennan.

The evening concluded with the initiation of nine new members: Miss Patsy Craig, Miss Sammy Jane Carithers, Mrs. June Huss, Mrs. Bess DeFreitas, Mrs. Kristi Bertolotto, Mrs. Grace Duncan, Mrs. Sally Hinnau, Mrs. Roberta Meek, and Miss Patricia O'Connor.

Music Critics Acclaim Melba Potter Palmer

Melba Potter Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Yates Potter of Mound Road, Jacksonville, recently presented an organ recital on the Buck Memorial Organ at the First Presbyterian church in San Anselmo, California. The performance of a demanding program of contemporary American and French composers, the famous St. Anne's Fugue by J. S. Bach and the well known Choral in A Minor by Cesar Franck established the young artist as a virtuoso according to the critics.

Mrs. Palmer began her music studies at the age of four with Mrs. Elizabeth Blackburn Martin in the junior department of Illinois Conservatory of Music, MacMurray College.

During her high school years she became a piano student of Professor Hugh Beggs. She attended MacMurray College

As a partial requirement for the Performers Degree Mrs. Potter was soloist with the Eastman-Rochester Symphony Orchestra under direction of Dr. Howard Hanson.

At the present time Mrs. Potter and her husband, Peter, and their daughter, Melody Ann, live in San Rafael, California where Mr. Palmer devotes full time to social welfare work.

Household Club Program Given By Mrs. Brewster

The Jacksonville Household Science club met Oct. 18th at the home of Mrs. Ivan K. Garrison, Two Pitner Place, with Mrs. J. A. Mann as assistant hostess.

Eighteen members responded to roll. Mrs. Hugh Green, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Clarence Brewster who presented the paper, Return to Simple Honesty. Some of the things threatening America, Mrs. Brewster drew from several sources to point up the ever growing problem of crime, violence and civil disobedience in America. Most of the authorities cited by the speaker agreed that part of the blame for this moral decay rests with the home. The family circle must nurture the elementary lesson of respect for individual rights and the law emphasizing it throughout each child's education.

The fast moving tempo of every day living complicates these problems which have been present for many years. Mrs.

Phyllis Ann Montgomery

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley F. Montgomery of Welles Drive North, Newington, Connecticut, announce the engagement of their daughter, Phyllis Ann, to John Millard Sessions, son of Mr. and Mrs. Millard H. Sessions of East Aurora, New York. A June wedding is planned.

Editorial Comment

Vote "Yes" On The Pink

It is a peculiarity of the state constitution that all amendments to the Illinois Banking Act even though approved by the legislature and signed by the Governor must be ratified by vote of the people.

At the election Nov. 8th voters will be handed a separate pink ballot with other ballots. No voter can intelligently form an opinion on the merits of the proposed amendments simply by looking at the ballot. It merely lists by number the many sections of the act which are to be changed. However, there should be no hesitancy on the part of any voter in marking this pink ballot YES. These Banking Act amendments passed both houses of the state General Assembly without a dissenting vote. They have been approved by Gov. Kerner.

The pink ballot amendments are not controversial and are non-political. Both the Democratic and the Republican parties have endorsed them and so have many civic groups including farm and labor organizations.

The purpose of the amendments is to permit Illinois banks to render better service and to provide an independent state banking department for their supervision. There is no question but that they should receive a favorable public vote.

For A 20th Century Assembly

Since the Constitution of Illinois was adopted in 1870 there have been relatively few changes made. The General Assembly that makes laws affecting the lives and livelihood of every citizen still operates in the jet age under a method of operation drawn up during the days of the horse and buggy.

For example, in 1870 it was deemed quite in order for the members of the Legislature to meet for six months every two years to approve a budget and take what actions were needed in what was then mostly an agricultural society. Springfield was a long way from Chicago and from Cairo as traveling was accomplished in those days.

Today the state of Illinois is a $2 billion operation. Its budget is in a book an inch and a half thick. The Legislature considered more than 4,000 bills and resolutions last year. Illinois business has simply grown too big to be run by a board of directors that meets every two years. When one can travel the state's length of 380 miles in less than an hour in a jet plane, there is simply no excuse for biennial meetings.

A change to annual sessions is only one of a number of modernizations of the operation of the Legislature proposed by the bipartisan Commission on the Organization of the General Assembly, announced last week by its chairman Rep. Harold A. Katz (D-Glencoe).

"Problems in education, health care, human relations, urban decay and transportation simply don't begin in January and end in June in each odd-numbered year," Katz said.

The Katz commission has been studying what needs to be done to modernize the Legislature for more than a year. Its 20 members, five Democrats, five Republicans and 10 public representatives, are agreed a major overhauling is necessary. So are we.

Many of the changes would strengthen the Legislature in relation to the governorship. For example, it would provide for a reconvening of the Legislature 60 days after adjournment to pass upon bills the governor vetoed. At present when the Legislature adjourns and the governor vetoes a bill, that's the end of it. More than 90 per cent of all vetoes last session were made after adjournment. We can think of many bills vetoed in recent years that should have had the benefit of reconsideration in the assembly, but in the last 30 years not one veto has been overridden by the Legislature, in large measure because of post-adjournment vetoing.

Under the 1870 Constitution, only the governor can call the Legislature into special session. The commission proposes that on written request of two-thirds of the members such a session might be called to consider emergency matters. If annual sessions were adopted there would be fewer occasions for calling special sessions.

How much the various changes would cost has not been precisely calculated but the efficiency they would encourage might prove money-saving in the long run. The commission's study is so important it will be published early next year by the University of Illinois Press. We urge every legislator to read it and act on it.

Dear Ann:

(Dis) Pleasingly Plump

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: My husband, Sam, has a habit that makes me awfully mad. It so happens that I have a tendency to be fleshy, but I am not what you'd call fat. When I wear my best foundation garment and put on a black dress I look very presentable.

Whenever we go out for an evening and a great big cow of a woman passes, Sam gives me a poke in the ribs and says, "Keep eating, Shirley." He has done this to me in front of friends so many times I have lost count already. I really hate it. How can I fight this sort of thing? Can you think of a smart answer?

PLEASINGLY PLUMP
Dear Shirley: You sign yourself "Pleasingly Plump." Who are you pleasing? Not Sam, apparently.

The smartest answer is for you to lose some weight. In other words, when the potatoes and hot rolls and pie and cake and cookies are passed, if you keep your mouth shut—Sam won't have anything to open up his mouth about.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a woman of 55. For several years I have had a problem that no one will talk to me about. If only my husband or daughter or friends would be honest about it I would feel a lot better. I have a peculiar odor to my skin. It is not perspiration, it is a musty type of smell that comes from my pores. When I first noticed this (about 18 years ago) I took two and three baths a day, applied several types of deodorant, used special soaps and then sprayed myself with cologne. It didn't help. Nobody has ever said anything to me about the odor but I know it is there.

I went to a doctor ten years ago and he said there was nothing wrong with me. Please give me some advice. I am becoming so self-conscious about this skin odor that I don't want to be around people any more. —MRS. HERMIT

Dear Mrs.: I'm sorry to disagree with your physician, but there "is" something wrong with you. The problem is in your head.

Your phobia is not unusual. I have had hundreds of letters from people who are concerned about this problem. Of course they don't believe me when I tell them the odor is imaginary, and I don't expect you to believe me either.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are very fond of a certain couple. We are all in our early 40's. This couple invited us to take a vacation with them and we were delighted. Yesterday they announced they are taking their 7-year-old son along. Please understand that we like the child. He is well-behaved and very bright but my husband and I don't want to spend our one vacation in the year with him.

How can we get out of the commitment? If we tell the parents how we feel our friendship will never be the same. Rush your advice. Time is short. —SIOUX CITY SUE

Dear Sue: The naked, unadorned truth is always better than any dressed up lie. If your friendship cannot survive much honesty it isn't worth protecting. The parents should have offered you a graceful out when they decided to take their son. Since they did not, you should level with them.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Barry Tries to Undermine Romney Nomination in '68

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Barry Goldwater's attempt to precommit the 1968 Republican convention against Michigan's Gov. George Romney is a fascinating endeavor—without precedent in modern GOP annals.

Goldwater keeps saying that the 1968 convention will be largely a carbon copy of the 1964 pro-Goldwater affair in its delegate make-up and then signaling potential delegates that he heartily disapproves of Romney. The man he is talking about is, at the moment, the one most favored by rank and file Republicans. Romney's poll margin over Richard Nixon is roughly 4 to 3. Polls also show the Michigan governor trailing President Johnson only 51-49, while Nixon runs behind LBJ 57-43.

These figures could, of course, change radically against Romney in the long months between now and nominating time. Nixon or a possible victorious Ronald Reagan in California might alter the equation.

Presumably, too, Romney needs not only to win a big re-election vote this November but to risk and win some key presidential primaries in 1968.

If he does all this, however, his poll status as the most favored Republican may not be only maintained but enhanced as well.

Goldwater thus is putting himself in the position of opposing flatly, nearly two years before convention time, a potential candidate who is today and could be then his party's best vote-getting bet to overturn Lyndon Johnson.

His signals to like-minded conservatives do not say: "Don't vote for Romney." They simply say, in effect: "I don't think these people would vote for Romney."

Goldwater's opposition, incidentally, appears rooted in displeasure over the governor's refusal to campaign for Goldwater.

Party officials say that in recent conventions prior to 1964 the delegate repeaters came to 45 to 50 per cent of the total. The heavy Goldwater flood that year reduced the percentage of repeaters to around 35 per cent.

Ample signs already have been noted by state GOP leaders and others that a good share of the 1964 pro-Goldwater delegates will not be back. The proportion of repeaters is being estimated at from 35 to 45 per cent.

A convention with newcomers adding to possibly 55 to 65 per cent of the total can hardly be double a carbon of 1964, even if many new choices show conservative leanings. Seasoned professionals look, in fact, for a roster more flexible than 1964, more dedicated to winning and hence more receptive to a George Romney or anybody else who might look like a winner.

One party veteran says privately that he believes Goldwater's real following is very sharply diminished from 1964.

Moreover, the former senator's contention that the 1968 delegate make-up will duplicate 1964 is widely contested.

as GOP presidential nominee in 1964, and over Romney's presumed liberalism — though he is, in fact, an almost indefinable blend of liberal and conservative.

Should Romney continue to maintain top party stature as presidential timber, some cold-eyed Republican professionals suggest that continued Goldwater disapproval, telegraphed constantly to other conservatives, would amount to a suicidal impulse.

It strikes these professionals as incredible that any major party leader would try to slam the door on any man who might by early 1968 have a solid chance to unseat LBJ.

Actually, though, their annoyance is tempered by a conviction that the Barry Goldwater of 1964-68 could not likely make a veto of Romney stick.

Communication

Dear Editor:

Besides never missing Ann Landers, "Winthrop," and of course, the news, there is another section of your paper that I never miss, and that is the Editorial Section! I think the Editorials are well written, "common-sense-able," and just in general, very good. It is in response to one of these that I am writing today. I suppose I should write something earth-shattering on a profound subject. But instead, I am prompted by a simple little subject called "Those Bedtime Blues."

That appeared several weeks ago. It has taken me all this time to decide to take the trouble to write a letter and tell my thoughts on the subject. This may not be profound or earth-shattering, but it is important and you must agree since you gave it space!

You will recall you told of a Dr. Jolly, a leading British child specialist, who has expressed the viewpoint that getting children to bed "on time" isn't very important after all. That children don't need a specified number of hours of sleep. That may be fine for the night before what child wouldn't agree to that? But, being the parent of three, ages 9, 7, and 2, I can't help but wonder what Dr. Jolly's viewpoints would be about the morning after! How does he feel I should get those sleepyheads up, out of bed, dressed, breakfasted, and off to school? After all, the bus starts "on time," and school starts "on time." How does Dr. Jolly feel that a teacher is supposed to teach a listless child and get him to work up to his capacity, when it is difficult enough to teach an alert child?

Does Dr. Jolly have a magic remedy for overcoming their grumpiness brought on by a lack of sleep? They fight enough when they are in good humor, without asking for more! How does Dr. Jolly propose that I am to get my two-year-old to go ahead and eat his supper when he has missed his afternoon nap, when all he wants to do is whine and snooze on the high chair tray?

I can't help but think that Dr. Jolly has never been around to see the aftermath of his theory! Granted that it is a job getting "live-wires" to bed, but it is a much more disagreeable task to prod, plead, wheedle, beg, threaten, push, and get impatient over two tired youngsters who, because they didn't get enough sleep last night, refuse to move faster than a snail's pace. I don't think we need to be rigid, setting a certain bedtime hour and sticking to it, no matter what. And every child is different. What is right for one, may not be right for another. In fact, in our home, our older child requires more rest than the seven-year-old. I think your viewpoint is much more sensible than Dr. Jolly's. You say parents should relax, enjoy their children, and not worry if they get to bed a half hour after the stated bedtime.

Dr. Jolly "chides doctors and patients for clinging to the misconception that the child needs a specific number of hours' sleep each night," as your editorial stated. However, I feel it is Dr. Jolly's theory that is the misconception. Not only children, but we ALL need proper rest each night. Some persons may need as much as 9 hours' sleep, while others do very nicely on as few as 5 or 6. My body tells me so, for the next day, I drag through the whole day with little energy to do my work. I don't have "iron-poor anemia," as the commercial says.

I just needed another hour of sleep. Lots of husbands fall asleep in front of the TV in the evening. But when mine falls asleep at 8:30, instead of 9:30, then he knows he needs to get to bed a little earlier to night.

Thank you for a much more sensible viewpoint than Dr. Jolly concerning this task all parents must face. However, I think the most sensible one of all is my "human dynamo" of two, who recently one day was allowed to escape his afternoon nap. Right after supper, he walked over to Daddy, looked up with sleepy tired eyes, and said, "I wanna go bed, Daddy!" HE knew what he needed!

Sincerely,
Mrs. Roy B. Hall

Have the Teen-Agers Lost Parents on Sex Education?

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
As you probably know, the National Association of Independent Schools recently urged the adoption of sex education programs by our public schools as well as by its 760 member private schools. In view of this news, new importance is given to opinions on the subject expressed by a coed group of high school seniors which have come to my attention. Here are some of them.

Boy: Straight information without teaching how to handle it wouldn't be any good.

Girl: The important goal would be self-understanding. I think sex education is an important part of self-understanding.

Boy: Adults look at sex instruction as a way of controlling our morals.

Girl: This is the real sad part. Parents keep right on thinking, "My little child doesn't need this knowledge!" They don't want to handle the facts. They keep hoping they can handle them with just talking about high morals.

Boy: I don't want my parents to have anything to do with it! Who do you know that can go up to a parent and ask matter-of-factly what they'd like to know about sex?

Girl: Every teen-ager needs someone who knows what's going on with kids and does not feel they have to pry into your personal life if you ask a question but will honestly tell you the answers you want to know. That kind of person makes you feel trusted — and mature.

Boy: We should educate the adults for sure. It seems to be what they need to make them happier.

Boy: So it's back to educating the parents. Now even with this counselor in the community, he would have to be a pretty versatile guy. He'd have to get everyone on his side before they will let him counsel. That's the kind of block you run into with parents and adults.

Girl: There could be panel discussions set up for teen-agers and there could be separate ones for parents. And the same leader could work with both of them. Then at home the parents and kids could discuss how they felt about the panel. And maybe begin to communicate.

Which is it young people want the most: sex education or recovery of us, of talk with us, of unafraidness with us? It seems to be BOTH they want equally. They're saying they've lost us somewhere.

FINDING THE WAY

A Time for Angry Men

Dr. Loew

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
An ancient Egyptian tomb is reported to have the inscription: "And no one is angry enough to speak out."

There are some unusual stories of anger boiling over into disgraceful, violent action. There is the anger involved in military action. There is the unrestrained anger of mobs and the anger of men attempting to keep order.

Anger is never pretty. It disturbs, protests and wrecks the complacent quiet. Jesus spoke out against the hypocrites and drove the money changers from the temple. He was angry because of deep convictions.

To love freedom is to be angry at slavery; To love justice is to stand against injustice;

To love the dignity of the human being is to stand against anything which degrades; To love the right is to hate the wrong;

To love God is to hate the evil. When hatred is degraded it becomes unmanageable violence, or irritability or immoral bigotry. Then a man tries to label his irritability as righteous indignation.

Anger is always hard to manage. It demands great discipline and superb restraint.

Restraint is demanded of our diplomats, an ability to plow through semantic wildernesses with such deftness that personal anger never wrecks the discussions upon which hang the destiny of mankind.

So our anger needs to be intelligent and righteous. Wilson Mizner wrote, "The worst-tempered people I've ever met were people who know that they were wrong."

One of the most prominent Democratic representatives, addressing the freshmen, roared: "In this state, the party comes first! Then you think of yourself! And then you think of the people!"

Mrs. Kiven, a little shocked, nudged the man next to her and asked if she was hearing correctly. "Yes, you are," he responded. "But in his case, he's got things backward. He always thinks of himself first and then the party."

In Maine, incumbent Republican Gov. John Reed is being pressed hard by young Kenneth Curtis, the Democratic secretary of state. Reed's campaign literature makes much of the fact that he was chairman of the 1966 Governor's Conference.

On last Saturday Mr. Geo. Moss had his hand and arm badly mutilated by a threshing machine. The accident occurred about four miles west of town. The handsome marble front of the new business block adjoining Strawn's Hall is being put up this week.

The recently organized Union Express company opened an office for the transaction of business in this city on last Monday. The business men of this city have invested largely in the stock of the company.

BURGLARY — On last Friday the residence of John Boston, on the Springfield road some two miles east of town, was, in the absence of the family, entered by burglars, and robbed of clothing and jewelry, to a considerable amount. The rascals missed finding $150 in bills in one of the drawers of a bureau.

From the Carrollton Gazette: Deacon Bross and Henry Case left off a little superfluous grass in this place on Thursday afternoon and evening.

William Bross was lieutenant governor of Illinois and an editorial writer for the Chicago Tribune. Henry Case was a Jacksonville attorney running on the Republican ticket for Congressman from the 10th Illinois district. He was badly beaten in the November election although the Republicans managed to carry all state offices with good majorities.

The new Methodist church at Mason's Grove, about 6 1/2 miles east of Carrollton, was dedicated on Sunday, the 21st inst., by Dr. Crarey, editor of the Central Christian Advocate, St. Louis, Mo.

A drove of 24 head of 3 year old steers, owned by Baldwin & Roodhouse, passed our office this morning, whose average weight was 1,474 pounds. This we call "A No. 1." They were purchased, we believe, by a Missouri drover.

A Mr. Dodgson, residing near Kane in this county, tells us of a very serious accident which was likely to prove fatal to Mr. S. Heason, who was engaged in thrashing wheat some five miles from the above place. It seems that his clothing caught on the tumbling shaft of the thrashing machine, and threw him around at such a rate as to nearly kill him before the machine could be stopped.

VOTE YES ON THE PINK BALLOT

When you go to the polls on November 8, you will be handed a pink ballot along with others. This pink ballot has to do with amending various sections of the banking act. The bill making the changes has passed both houses of the state legislature unanimously but under our constitution, all banking law changes must also be approved by the voters.

These changes were worked out by bankers and approved by all the banking regulatory officials in the state. They are endorsed by a large number of state organizations including the State Chamber of Commerce and labor groups.

I urge you to vote "yes" on the pink ballot November 8.

U.S. Takes Big Step In World's Soybeans

PEORIA — The United States will continue to produce more than 70 percent of the world's soybeans during the next 10 years, the dean of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture stated here Monday.

Speaking before the International Conference on Soybean Protein Foods, Orville G. Bentley presented these estimates of the potentials and limitations for worldwide soybean production.

During the past 10 years, U.S. production has expanded while the production in the rest of the world has declined. All factors considered, major producers in the next 10 years will probably continue to be the United States and mainland China — the two countries producing 91 percent of world output in 1965.

Increasing output in Brazil, the Soviet Far East, Canada and Mexico will give these countries a rising share of world output.

Unfavorable growing conditions will discourage acreage expansion in western Europe, western United States, western South America and other similar areas, Bentley feels.

In some countries, government policies may influence growers to plant other crops. But if prices for various crops are permitted to direct production, growers will plant soybeans rather than another crop when they expect more profit.

The soybean plant has a high degree of adaptability and is recognized all over the world as an efficient producer of high-quality protein and edible oil.

Students of world food problems agree that more protein is

Local Hog Producers Seek Ways To Build Up Pork Consumption

There has been a light response from Illinois hog farmers to a National Pork Producers Council opinion survey on pork improvement, research and promotion. As of September 30, only 283 of a hoped-for 7,000 response had been received.

The council, composed of state organizations like the Illinois Pork Producers Association, represents the swine industry, particularly in national legislation. The Illinois association is a federation of local and county organizations.

The national council hopes to have at least 50,000 U.S. hog farmers express opinions about swine industry needs. But the September 30 tally showed only 1,439 returns.

The Morgan County Pork Producers, an association of relatively young men, concluded last week to do something about this state-mated query.

All hog raisers are concerned about the consumption of pork. In the past 20 years it has failed to keep up with the population, with poultry—chickens, ducks, turkeys—zooming to the roof every year and with beef making substantial gains annually.

Richard DeOnnellas, Jacksonville Hampshire breeder and swine herdsman, is the president of the local association. He hopes that he and his associates — some 20 of them — can call on every pork producer in the county during the next 30 days and ask them what they think about certain questions.

"What does the producer wish to do about advertising his product?" asks Marvin Martin of Alexander, the Morgan county delegate to Illinois Pork Producers.

"Between rains and harvest slowdowns we hope to intend to visit every hog producer in the county between now and the end of November," Martin says.

"The national meeting of the Pork Producers association will be held in Springfield Dec. 7 and we want to give them the views of the pork producers of Morgan county at that time."

Every farmer who has an interest in the hog industry should fill out a survey form, says G. R. Carlisle, University of Illinois extension livestock specialist. Forms are available in the September issue of the "National Hog Farmer" magazine and from county farm advisers.

In proportion to the size of the industries, less federal and state money has been spent for swine research than for beef, dairy, sheep and poultry.

"For every $1 billion of dairy retail products, the dairy industry receives about $2.7 million for research. Beef cattle research expenditures amount to about $2.8 million for every $1 billion of beef retail products. But for every $1 billion of pork retail products, only about $2.16 million goes into swine research."

Illinois has been increasing its share of national hog production, Carlisle notes. According to census data, Illinois hog production totaled 12.3 million in 1964, or 14.5 percent of the U.S. total, up from 10.8 percent in 1940.

During the past 15 years, per capita pork consumption has declined about one percent a year. Per capita beef consumption has increased about one percent annually, and poultry has made "amazing gains," Carlisle says.

Illinois' increasing share of the national production and declining per capita pork consumption makes efforts to maintain or expand hog markets very important for Illinois agriculture, says Carlisle.

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

WHEAT PRICES

Wheat prices dropped about 25 cents a bushel from mid-September to October 10. Many farmers have asked for the reasons for the tumble.

We don't presume to know all reasons, but we have some ideas. Maybe wheat prices got too high. There has been a lot of bullishness in agricultural circles lately. There has been much talk about the disappearance of surplus farm products, hungry people in foreign lands, war and inflation. Whatever the reasons, wheat prices were about 40 cents higher on September 15 than they were a year earlier.

News of Big Crops. Reports from Moscow tell of bumper crops in Russia. Soviet officials are said to expect total grain production to be around 6 billion bushels. That amount would be one-third more than last year, and 5 percent more than the previous record set in 1964.

Canada reports a very good wheat crop, probably the largest ever produced by that country. The official estimate of production is 824 million bushels, 24 percent more than last year.

Since the Russian and Canadian wheat lands are rather far north, their crops develop later than ours. Consequently information about them did not become available until late in the summer.

India also seems to have better food crops than in 1965, when the worst drought in many years spoiled many crops.

Record World Production. A recent USDA report said, "Record wheat production in 1966 is expected to help replenish world wheat inventories, which were reduced by heavy import demand and unusually large exports in the fiscal year just ended. Large crops are in prospect, especially in four of the five leading countries."

World wheat production in 1966 is estimated at 9.5 billion bushels, 6 percent more than last year, and 2 percent more than the previous record set two years ago.

Our Supply. The 1966 U.S. wheat crop is now estimated at 1.3 billion bushels, 1 percent more than in 1965. The carryover of old wheat on July 1 was 536 million bushels compared with 616 million a year earlier.

The U.S. carryover of old wheat next July 1 seems likely to be around 425 million bushels. While this amount would be much less than the record carryover of 1,400 million bushels in 1961, it is a comfortable reserve for emergencies.

The USDA in August moved to jump wheat production next year. The Department set the national wheat acreage allotment for the crop to be harvested in 1967 at 67.2 million acres, up 32 percent from the allotment for the 1966 crop.

World Price Decline is Small. While U.S. prices of wheat dropped about 25 cents a bushel in three weeks, the prices to foreign buyers were cut only 5 to 8 cents. Prices to foreign buyers are stabilized by varying the rate of export payments made by the government to exporters.

BRIMFUL Solid Research Key To Many Of Our Problems—Claar

The mission of the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service is to help people solve major problems facing modern society through research-based educational programs, Director J. B. Claar stated Thursday.

Most everybody around here remembers J. B. Claar. We all called him Jack when he was a fieldman for the Sangamon Valley Farm Bureau Farm Management Service.

Speaking to the state and county staff at the annual conference, he said that the work of the Cooperative Extension Service and College of Agriculture is a tremendous demonstration that the best way to deal with many of these problems is through problem-oriented education programs.

Claar emphasized that the cooperative extension program strikes at the heart of many problems facing society. Today a great deal of innovation is taking place in extension programs and techniques to deal with the wider range of responsibilities that arise from more specialized and rapidly changing conditions.

Claar listed six specific missions for the Cooperative Extension Service in this modern setting:

(1) Assure efficient and adequate production and distribution of food and fiber. The agricultural industry, both on and off the farm, must continue its spectacular development in order to keep the growing population adequately fed, clothed and sheltered and to meet its commitments abroad. Farmers and other agricultural business firms need specialized scientific information based on research at the University, U.S. Department of Agriculture and other experiment stations. Congress recognized this need recently when it passed the Technical Services Act, which expanded such technical education.

(2) Strengthen the family and home through family life and home economics education. The family is the basic unit in our society. Extension programs in child development, family economics, nutrition, family life and related areas strike at fundamental problems that affect family stability and happiness. And the needs in these areas are growing along with our rising population. A great deal of innovation and experimentation is taking place throughout the state, including the initiation of specific programs for hard-to-reach groups.

(3) Provide education and experiences to help young people achieve their potential. 4-H is a major part of the extension program. Projects, activities and leader training help young people gain knowledge, skills and experiences that will help them earn a living and motivate them to live full and useful lives. The highest youth population in history is placing great demands on the extension staff and volunteer leaders to provide these learn-by-doing experiences to more youngsters now than ever before. New projects are being developed and new techniques are being used that are having an enthusiastic reception.

(4) Improve the quality of our environment. Communities face serious management and development problems relating to community services, resource use and conservation, economic development and protection against both manmade and natural hazards. Solution of these problems requires research-based technical knowledge and organizational know-how to which extension workers are prepared to contribute.

(5) Inform local people about services that originate outside the community, and help them learn how to use them. County and area extension offices are helping people throughout the state know their University and the many services and educational opportunities provided by it and other agencies. Through such activities the community can more effectively use these tools toward the accomplishment of local goals.

(6) Help people around the world use cooperative extension methods. This promises to be a most demanding dimension in the future. The teaching methods, organization and principles used in helping solve everyday problems at home provide a pattern for helping people in developing countries deal with their pressing problems. The know-how gained by extension workers is being applied in assistance programs in many countries. Some extension staff members are now working under University contract programs in India and Sierra Leone. The new Food for Peace Bill may greatly expand this work.

Extension's educational efforts to help individuals and groups, multiplied many times over, add up to a mighty force for furthering community, state and national goals, Claar concluded.

DOG TALK

By Mary Pence Claywell

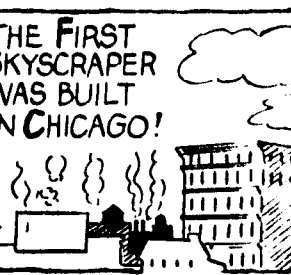

I have a little doggie... he's as cute as a cat can be... Of course, that's my opinion... for he's very dear to me: He gives a little baby-bark, when it is dinner time; He wags his tail... to say, "Hello," he's lonesome, when he whines; He barks in raucous manner... when a noisy dog appears; And cocks his ears to tell me... he understands and hears: He talks in rapid, warning barks... no let-up and no squeak... If prowlers come around at night... when folk are sound asleep; He barks in sharp staccato, when rain comes blowing in; Or something quite unusual, appears to bother him: I know you'll like this SILENT TALK... a soft moist, small TONGUE-TOUCH Upon my CHEEK that whispers... "I LOVE YOU VERY MUCH!" We thank Thee, Lord, for all our pets... Life would seem bleak at times Without a little bird that sings... Or... a little dog... to whine!

GLOBESAT IN '68

By WALTER B. HENDRICKSON JR.

TRW systems of Redondo Beach, California, is building a Global Communications Satellite (Globesat) to be launched by the Communications Satellite Corp. in 1968. This satellite will carry more than 1,200 two-way telephone conversations or four television channels. The basic design can also be adapted for business and scientific data transmission, domestic television in the United States, air traffic controls and communications or combinations of these applications. At the request of Comsat, TRW designed its satellites to orbit at various altitudes and inclinations and operate for at least five years, if not longer. This 56-inch-wide, 37-inch-high satellite weighs 250 pounds. It is designed to spin like a top to keep it pointing always in the same direction. Up to six satellites may be launched at once depending on how large a booster Rocket can Center. The Globesat is cylindrical, like most of the other relay satellites, with a solid rocket down the middle. This rocket is to provide the final kick to put the satellite into orbit. As the space craft begins its orbital life its transmitting antenna will be spun out from the end opposite the rocket nozzle. In between the antenna and the rocket nozzle are four panels on which the satellite's electronic equipment is mounted. Four hydrazine-powered gas jets are used to line the satellite up properly with earth. The sides of the Globesat are given a blue-hue by the 10,000 glass-covered silicon solar cells that draw power for the satellite from the sun. These cells supply a little extra power which is stored in nickel-cadmium batteries for use when the satellite is in the shadow of earth. This power system will supply the satellite with about 30 volts of D. C. current. The Globesat can handle the heavy communications traffic: 100 to 15,000 years ago.

WATERMELON TIME

By John Rankin

Teen Scene

By Christine Hembrough

I'm sure you'll agree that all teens need to learn to be good cooks (it's fun too). After all, we may marry — and even if we don't we'll have to cook something sooner or later. Here is a favorite cookie recipe of mine. I hope you will enjoy them as much as we do here in my home.

"Snickerdoodles"
1 cup light brown sugar
½ cup chopped raisins (coco-nuts or candies)
2 tbs. butter
2 tsp. baking powder
1 egg
½ cup flour
¼ cup milk
Sugar, cinnamon
Chop raisins. Mix dry ingredients, then add raisins, butter and milk. (The butter should be soft or melted.) Add egg. Drop onto a greased cookie sheet by teaspoons. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Bake in preheated oven (this usually takes 10 minutes) at 350 degrees Fahrenheit for 10 minutes. Makes about 3 dozen.

For Beginners
If you're a beginner, I can say that there won't be too much to learn. You will of course need to read, measure, and know how your home appliances operate—which you probably are already familiar with. You will of course need time and some practice. Most girls find it quite easy to turn out delicious foods, but need practice in making the foods appealing to the eye. There are many good cook books—some for simple things, others for real gourmet foods. Of course you should use safety and cleanliness in cooking. Wash your hands before you begin cooking, use potholders to lift hot things. If you have long hair it is a good idea to put it up so as not to get hair in your foods.

Clean up as you go along, and do the dishes as soon as possible. It is a good idea when baking, to wash the mixing and measuring tools while the foods are baking instead of waiting till the last minute. Your Favorite Recipe? If you have any questions, or any good ideas or recipes I'd love to hear them. Send them to me: Teen Scene Columnist, Junior Page, Jacksonville Journal Courier, Jacksonville, Ill. 62650. Bye.....

Enclosed by a high wire fence, the watermelon patch lay sprawled by itself in the sandy soil along the railroad tracks. Bordered by a network of tangled vines and thorny underbrush, a trail or road of sorts tailed off through the woods led to a quaint little shack up on a hill among a sprinkling of trees. From a point high on the railroad track overlooking the patch, Mike Frazier peered over the clusters of ripened melons glittering in the late afternoon sun and pointing, glanced around at his pal, Danny Crain, "That old house up on the hill. Anybody live there?"

Shotgun Handy
Danny nodded. "Sure Old Mr. Ginder. He's a real crabby old gink and he keeps a shotgun handy. Most folks are afraid of him. Especially kids!" "Whew!" Mike whistled softly. "Must be a real mean old gink. He owns this watermelon patch?" "Yeah, he owns it and he keeps an eagle eye on it too," Danny declared. "And just the other day when I dropped in at Jerry's store he was telling everybody down there how any kid who tried to make off with one of his watermelons would end up with a load of buckshot. Then he gave me a fierce look and I beat it out of there in a hurry."

Electric Fence?
Mike thought that over a moment and said, "Wonder if that fence is charged. You think it's hot, maybe?" "Of course it's hot!" Danny said with a shrugging gesture. "A guy can get shook up something fierce if he even touches it. Let alone trying to climb the thing. So the only way to get to that watermelon patch is to come in by the house."

A long silence followed then as each boy probed deep into his inmost thoughts searching for a way to meet the challenge facing them. Finally Mike peered down on the tempting watermelon patch behind the electrically charged fence and at the jagged, wooded hills around it, and he saw something that sent his pulse rate up and put a new gleam in his eye. "Hey, Danny, I see something that gives me an idea and I'll bet it works too," he said in a loud whisper.

They sat down on the ends of the railroad ties then and they talked and schemed, and finally settled on a plan to outsmart the crabby old Mr. Ginder by making off with one of his watermelons right under his very nose. Of course it wouldn't be stealing... they reasoned. It couldn't be. And there was nothing really bad or wrong with just taking a little watermelon from the patch, either. Not when they'd take it back and put it right where they got it.

Peace In Maturity

By Emma Mae Leonhard

Before us a September 17 day's enjoyment of the circus of a car pulling into the drive when they learn that Cousin Emily has a date for a tryout at the radio studio and Aunt Stella must play the accompaniment. This means that Frank and Uncle Joe must baby-sit with Cousin Emily's lively youngsters. Although they are home life is not dull for the cat is chased up the tree, Elmer climbs after him and neither can be reached because one of the boys has saved up the ladder. Meantime Frank has somehow gotten locked in the cellar.

Still seething over the loss of his ladder, Uncle Joe hustled around to the cellar door at the back of the house and broke the lock with a heavy hammer. Then he swung the door wide and Frank emerged to stand there a moment with a sheepish grin on his face. Then he turned his attention to Elmer still up in the tree and putting up a great hue and cry for somebody to get him down.

It was a simple matter for Frank to climb the tree, and by using a rope and Uncle Joe giving a hand, they soon had Elmer safely on the ground. The cat in the meantime, however, had left his lofty perch and was nowhere in sight.

Elbert Gets Head Shuck
Uncle Joe muttered something under his breath and put both hands to his head in an act of despair. Then turning and sputtering as he went, he followed Frank to the house and then up the winding stairs to the second floor.

Sure enough: the trouble-making Elbert was on his hands and knees with his crew cut head wedged snug against the wall behind the radiator. Wriggling and thrashing out with both feet, he presented a formidable problem to say the least. And all the other kids milling around suggesting this and that and the other thing didn't help matters either.

Uncle Joe chased them out of the room and closed the door. Then taking Elbert by the heels he pulled as hard as he dared while Frank pushed on his head with his hands. He didn't budge. They used something like a pound of lard on his head then and tried again. Nothing!

Finally, with perspiration streaming down his face Uncle Joe drew back with a woe-begone look at Frank and said, "Go get my toolbox, son. We'll have to move the radiator!"

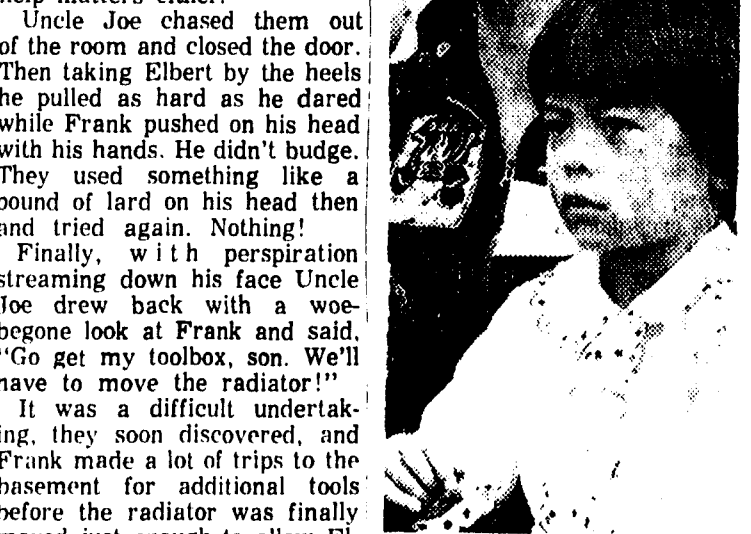

Frank and his Uncle Joe are looking forward to a whole head free. Then at the sound of a car pulling into the drive when they learn that Cousin Emily has a date for a tryout at the radio studio and Aunt Stella must play the accompaniment. This means that Frank and Uncle Joe must baby-sit with Cousin Emily's lively youngsters. Although they are home life is not dull for the cat is chased up the tree, Elmer climbs after him and neither can be reached because one of the boys has saved up the ladder. Meantime Frank has somehow gotten locked in the cellar.

Passes Singing Test
A little later, Uncle Joe stood on the porch and watched Cousin Emily's car pull from the drive and disappear down the highway. Feeling somewhat better about things now he meditated a moment and then looked around at Frank. "Guess she's not really a bad sort, son," he said reflectively. "I'm glad she passed her singing test with flying colors."

"Yeah, me too, I guess, but I wish it had happened some other time," Frank responded with a passive shrug. "The way it is we lost out on the circus and everything." "Oh I almost forgot to tell you," Aunt Stella chimed in from the doorway. "The circus didn't get to town after all. There was a breakdown or something and it was postponed until tomorrow."

With a shout of glee Uncle Joe wished Frank off his feet and swung him around over his head. Then he let him down laughing and together they went back inside.

Griffin Rallies To Nip JHS 21-14; Routt Wins 27-0

Fumble, Fake Punt Costly To Crimson

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

SPRINGFIELD—A costly fumble and a fake punt that backfired helped to set up two fourth quarter Griffin touchdowns as the Cyclones rallied to nip Jacksonville, 21-14, in a battle of undefeated Capitol Conference teams here Friday night.

Jacksonville's first quarter form was almost completely reversed the last three periods, after the Crimson jumped off to a quick 14-0 lead in the contest.

Griffin dominated the second and third quarters and got the two big breaks in the first 12 minutes as a final Jacksonville drive was halted by the game-ending gun.

The loss by JHS, who outgained the winners in all the offensive departments, was its first in six games this season, while Griffin is now 6-0, 3-0 in the league. The losers are 2-1 in the Capitol race.

Griffin got the ball on the Jacksonville 31-yard stripe late in the third quarter and marched in for a score that knotted the game at 14-14. Then with just over five minutes left in the game, the Crimson tried a fake punt on a fourth and two situation on their own 27 and punter Harry Gollier was stopped short of the first down, giving the Cyclones the ball on the Jacksonville 28. Seven plays later Griffin punched over the winning touchdown.

Move Ball On Ground

Jacksonville was able to move the ball on the ground for most of the tilt, including an 80-yard march to paydirt to start the contest, played before a good crowd in Memorial Stadium.

The Crimson got a stellar game from senior halfback Abe Brown, who reeled off 123 rushing yards on 17 carries, and twice almost broke loose for a touchdown in the closing seconds.

Jacksonville took the opening kickoff and marched 80 yards in 13 plays, punching out five and six yards on almost each carry. Brown, halfback Rich Coble and fullback Gollier found gapping holes opened by the hard-charging JHS line.

Brown romped untouched the final 11 yards on a reverse to give JHS a lead. Dean Hill booted the PAT against a gusting wind for a 7-0 difference with 6:35 left in the opening frame.

Jacksonville got the ball right back on the next play from scrimmage via a Griffin bobble at midfield. The Crimson failed to move, but got the ball back at their own 12 by holding Griffin without a first down on the following series.

Starting near the end of the first quarter, the Crimson again put together a scoring drive. This one covered 88 yards in only 11 plays. Brown and Gollier again punched out first-down yardage on the ground to the Griffin 45. From there quarterback Danny Brooks hit split end John Mathews with a perfect pass at the 20 and Mathews just made it over for the second JHS TD. Hill again connected on the kick for a 14-0 margin with 10:30 left in the half.

Griffin Moves Ball

Griffin was able to move the ball for the first time on the next series, moving 65 yards in 20 plays in a sustained ground march. Halfbacks Jim Non-

Persol Cops Unanimous Decision

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Persol spotted Amos (Big Train) Lincoln 21½ pounds and four inches in height and then completely outboxed and outpunched the third ranking heavyweight contender from Los Angeles in gaining a lopsided 10-round decision Friday night.

Persol, fourth ranking light-heavy who has moved up to the heavyweight ranks, weighed 182½ to the 6-foot-4 Lincoln's 204.

The 26-year-old New Yorker seemed at least twice as fast as his lumbering 29-year-old opponent, outscoring his towering foe better than five to one.

Judges Bill Recht and Jimmy Riccio each had Persol the winner by 9-0, with one round even. Referee Zach Clayton had it 6-3-1 for Persol. The Associated Press gave every round to Persol.

It was Persol's fifth straight victory and bolstered his record to 17-3-1. Lincoln's unbeaten streak was ended at seven. His record is 29-4-3.

Havana Blasts Deemack, 41-19

HAVANA — Havana jumped off to a 20-0 lead from which Deer-Creek-Mackinaw could not recover and proceeded to defeat Deemack 41-19 here Friday night in a non-conference clash.

John Crabtree opened Havana's scoring on a one-yard plunge. A run failed on the extra point attempt.

In the second quarter, Ken Beatty, Delbert Davis and Dan Ladd each scored for the Ducks. Beatty ran over from the three, and Ladd ran the extra point. Davis took a 21-yard pass from Bill Reiser, and Ladd converted on a run. Ladd scored on a seven-yard run, and Reiser converted.

Mike Hagney scored on a one-yard run, while Ladd ran the extra point in the third quarter. Ladd bucked over from the one in the fourth quarter. Reiser ran the extra point to finish the scoring.

John Dean scored all three Deemack touchdowns. In the second quarter, he took a nine-yard pass from Doug Eschman. Charles Heren kicked the extra point.

Dean scored on a five-yard run in the third period and on an 11-yard run in the final stanza. Both kicks failed.

Reiser, George Shaw and Ladd starred on defense for Havana. The Ducks picked up 22 first downs on 327 yards passing.

Both clubs now sport 2-4 season marks.

Mendon Notches 33-14 Triumph Over Winchester

WINCHESTER — Unity of Mendon turned three Winchester fumbles into quick tallies here Friday night to gain a 33-14 non-conference triumph over the host Wildcats.

Sparked by the quarterbacking of Brent Voth, Mendon struck for two tallies in the final 30 second of the first half, while connecting for two more late fourth period markers to ice the contest.

Voth tossed for 86 yards on eight of 14 aerials, three of which netted scores. The senior signal caller also legged in scores from one and 10 yards out.

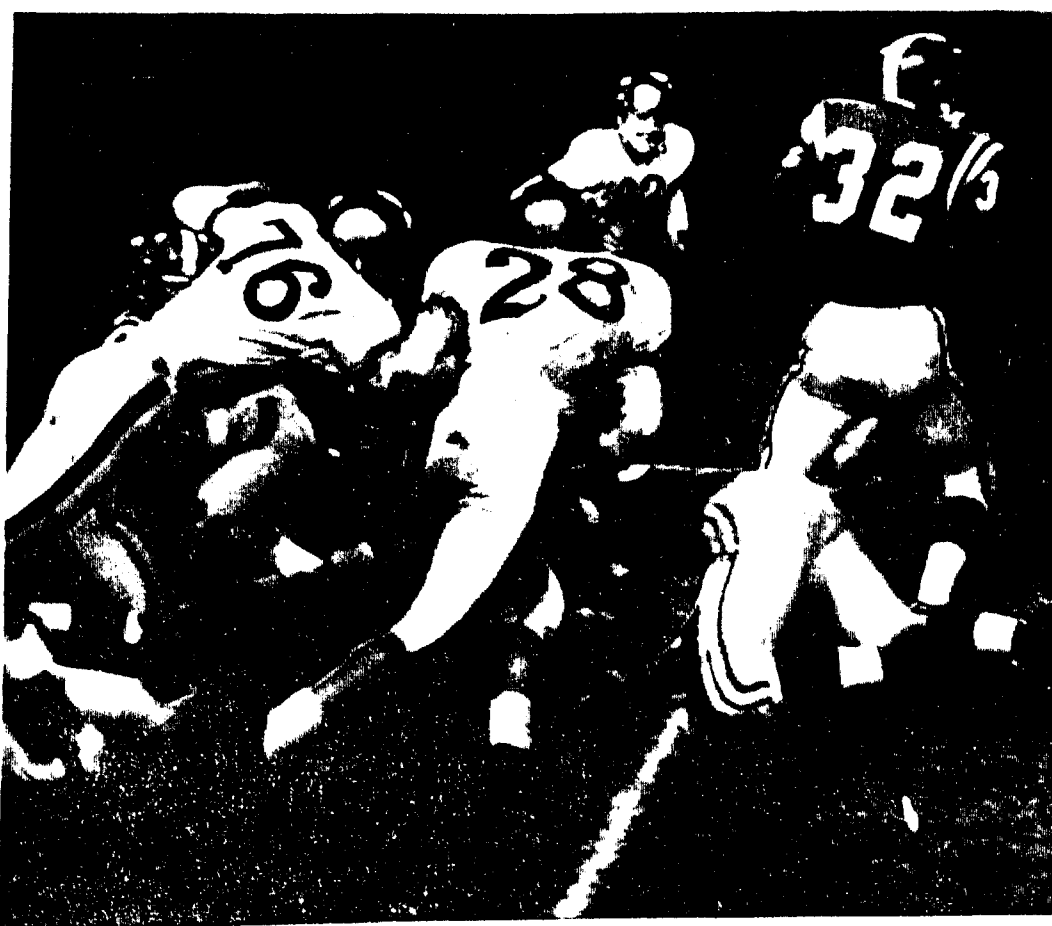

After a Don Campbell to Larry Evans pass pattern of 43 yards and Campbell's PAT carry put Winchester on top by 7-0, Mendon quickly maneuvered to a 13-7 halftime advantage.

A seven yard aerial from Voth to Doug Brissan capped a 60 yard drive for the first score, while Voth snuck in two plays later after the visitors gathered in a Winchester fumble.

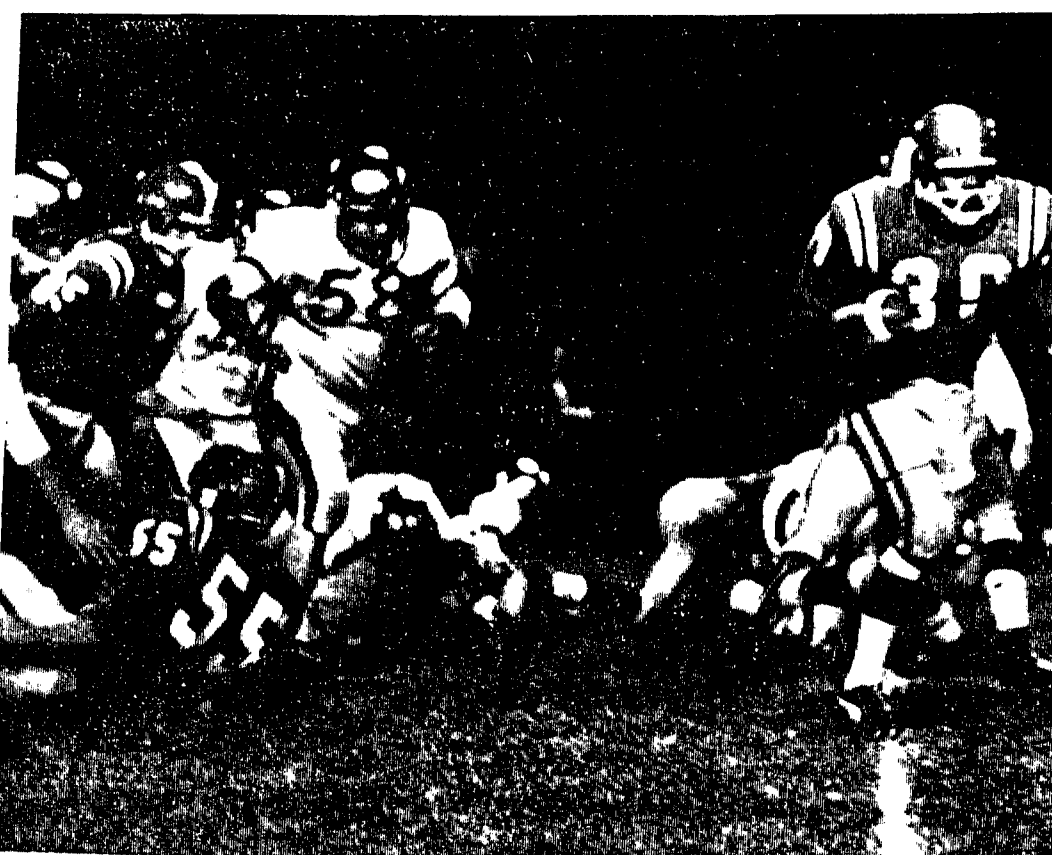

Down by 13-7, the Wildcats came back to take a 14-13 lead early in the third frame on Campbell's eight yard strike to Bob Moore. Campbell added the PAT.

After recovering Winchester's muffed quick kick attempt in the early fourth period action, Mendon went ahead for good on a 10 yard pass from Voth to Brissan. A fumble on the following kickoff paved the way for the next, with Voth carrying in from the five.

Mendon's final tally came on Brissan's eight yard romp late in the period.

STARTING OFF: Harry Gollier (on ground) throws a block as halfback Rich Coble gets out on this end sweep during the early action of Friday's night Capitol Conference tilt in Springfield. Swarming after Coble are Griffin defenders (l-r) Jim Holladay, John Link and John Dooling. Griffin rallied in the second half to knock the Crimson from the ranks of the undefeated, 21-14.

TD BOUND: Jacksonville halfback Abe Brown has the defense beat here on his first quarter end sweep that gained 11 yards and six points to give the Crimson a 6-0 lead. Other Crimson in the shot are Tor Duever (85) and Greg Neff. Griffin stayed unbeaten with a narrow 21-14 victory Friday night.

North Greene Ups League Lead, 24-14

PIASA—Once-defeated North Greene jumped off to a 12-0 first quarter lead and rolled to a 24-14 margin over Southwestern to grab undisputed position of the Illinois Valley Conference lead, here Friday night.

North Greene is now 4-0 in the IVC and leads by a game and a half over the rest of the field, as Greenfield and Southwestern are both now 2-1 with losses Friday.

Robert Craine set up the initial Spartan score with an interception of a lateral that was returned 50 yards to the Southwestern ten. From there Morgan Sensel scooted the final two yards. Sensel later scored from four yards away in the frame.

North Greene upped its lead to 18-0 in the third when Terry Sheppard tossed four yards to Craine. Southwestern got on the board in the frame when Tom Quakenbush legged an 18-yard TD. Charlie Crains ran the point after.

Sheppard tossed 13 yards to Craine for a score in the closing chapter. Southwestern's final TD came when Randy Childress ran 48 yards to the one, where Kenny Shrier lunged over. Craine legged the PAT.

The winners picked up 19 first downs to 15 by the losing club, and ground out 291 rushing yards to a whopping 325 by Southwestern. The winners held a 68-15 edge on passing.

North Greene is now 5-1 overall, to Southwestern's 2-4 mark.

Waterfowl Use At Chautauqua Up Considerably

HAVANA — Waterfowl use at the Chautauqua National Wildlife Refuge increased considerably during the second week of October, according to Refuge Manager Dick Toltzmann. Approximately 6,500 ducks, 250 geese and 5,000 coot are present on the refuge.

At this time last year, only about 1,200 ducks were using the refuge. The increased use is attributed to the excellent food and water conditions present on the area.

Each summer the Lake Chautauqua level is lowered approximately 1½ feet for a period of 6 weeks. During the drawdown period, moist soil, food plants such as millet, smartweed, nutgrass and spike-rush grow on the exposed mudflats.

Following maturation of these plants in early September the lake level is raised. As the lake level rises, the ducks and coot are able to move about the vegetation and feed on the seeds which have fallen into the water.

The Lake Chautauqua level has already been raised 1½ feet by diverting water from Quiver Creek. Toltzmann said that management plans call for an additional one foot of water prior to January.

Despite a decrease in wood duck numbers due to migration, it is expected that duck hunters in the vicinity of Chautauqua Refuge will have fair numbers of mallards and pintails to hunt on opening day.

Panthers Enter Win Column On 13-12 Margin

JERSEYVILLE — Jerseyville's hapless Panthers collected 13 points in the first half, aided by Tom Rody's field goal conversions, and held off a late Wood River bid to gain a slim 13-12 upset triumph over the visiting Oilers here Friday evening.

Wood River, who trailed 13-0 in the 19 years in the majors.

Rockets Control Game For 3rd Win

VIRGINIA—Routt's offensive machine punched out 325 yards on the ground and rolled to a surprisingly easy 27-0 PMSC Conference triumph over Virginia, here Friday night.

The Rockets piled up 19 first downs to only nine by Virginia, which managed 167 rushing yards, and never let the host Redbirds inside the Routt 30 yard line.

After a scoreless first period, Routt opened the scoring on the first play of the second stanza, with fullback Paul Lambert busting over from one yard away. Mike Sheehan legged the point after. Virginia held Routt on the one-yard line for three plays and took over later in the quarter.

Routt ran the Virginia tackles in the third quarter and marched steadily for a 65-yard scoring drive, with Sheehan going across from seven yards away. Lambert ran the extra point.

The Rockets added a pair of touchdowns in the final quarter to put the game on ice. Sheehan romped 65 yards on a reverse for the first score, with Lambert adding the point after. Later in the quarter Loyd Krumlauf tossed 15 yards to end Dick Zeller and the final score of the evening. Routt recovered a Virginia fumble with one minute left to keep the shutout intact.

Routt is now 3-3 for the season, and 3-1 in the PMSC Conference, good for second place. Virginia slipped to 3-4 overall and 1-2 in the conference.

Shaws Spark 34-0 Edge By Saukees

PITTSFIELD — The brother combination of David and Steve Shaw proved to be too much for the visiting Rushville Rockets here Friday night as undefeated Pittsfield roared past Rushville 34-0 in a Midwest Conference game.

Three blocked punts by the stingy Pittsfield defense set up two touchdowns. The Saukees, in winning their sixth game of the year, limited the visitors to three first downs.

David Shaw scored twice in the first quarter on runs of 30 and 10 yards. On both off tackle plays, Pat Powell threw key blocks which sprang the elusive Shaw. David Shaw kicked both extra points.

In the second quarter David Shaw blocked a Rushville punt which gave Pittsfield good field position. On a fourth-and-twelve situation, Steve Shaw ran a reverse for the touchdown. His brother kicked his third extra point.

Pittsfield defensive end Jim Farrington blocked a nether Rushville punt, and Ron Sealock recovered the loose ball in the end zone for Pittsfield's third period score. Mark Beatty ran the extra point.

In the fourth quarter, Pittsfield recovered a Rushville fumble and two 15-yard penalties put the fall inside the 10-yard line. Donny Mason finally scored on a four-yard run. The run for the extra point failed.

Marcus Knotts, Tom Henderson and Parker Zumwalt played an outstanding game on defense and repeatedly threw Rushville's backs for losses. The Saukees defense has only given up 13 points this year.

David Shaw had 98-yards rushing in 14 carries, and his brother, Steve, had 90 yards on 16 carries. Pittsfield picked up 245 yards rushing.

Sealock blocked the third Rushville punt, and Knotts was credited with six tackles. The contest was the first in the Midwest Conference for Pittsfield. Rushville is 4-2 overall and 1-2 in

Cards, Dallas Picked To Win In NFL Sunday

NEW YORK (AP) - Advice to Mike Rathel, who normally handles the pro picks: Get back from vacation in a hurry or the percentage goes below .500. The only redeeming feature in last week's flock of form reversals was the correct forecast of Miami's upset of Denver. That made it a dismal 5-4-2 for the week and 46-15-5, or .754, for the year.

Here's this week's guesses, all games Sunday:

Dallas 33, Cleveland 30 - The big one of the week pits the league's best, rushing offense (Cleveland, 180-yard average) against the league's best passing (Dallas, 282). The passing should prevail. Dallas' strong defense will be hard pressed to contain Leroy Kelly and Ernie Green the Browns' runners. The Browns have won six straight from the Cowboys, but the Don Meredith-Bob Hayes passing combo should end the string - just barely.

St. Louis 28, Washington 21 - The Cards have yet to lose and this is no time to start. If they can put the same pass rush on Washington's Sonny Jurgensen that they did on Meredith, it may be easy. Their customary comeback in the second half didn't really get off last week and may not be necessary Sunday.

Green Bay 35, Atlanta 7 - Atlanta Coach Norb Hecker still is seeking his first victory for the Falcons, but won't find it when he comes home to Green Bay. His old buddies have the league's best defense and that over-powering Bart Starr-Jim Taylor-Paul Hornung offense.

Chicago 28, Los Angeles 24 - The Rams won the first meeting this year but will find it very difficult to make it two straight in the George Halas-George Allen duel. To do so, they must contain Gale Sayers. It isn't likely the Bears will be shut out twice in a row.

Pittsburgh 28, Minnesota 17 - The Vikings couldn't handle Johnny Unitas in their first meeting. He may not match that four-touchdown performance, but should have plenty to keep the Colts on the move.

New York 17, Philadelphia 14 - The Giants scratched and clawed for their first victory last week and are traditionally tough at home against the Eagles. The kicking of Pete Gogolak will make the difference, but Timmy Brown will have another big day.

San Francisco 21, Detroit 14 - The 49ers have momentum with two in a row and the Lions have nothing but trouble. San Francisco quarterback John Brodie comes off his best performance of the season and may find the grumbling Lions in a let-down.

AFL
 New York 28, Oakland 21 - The Jets, still talking to themselves over last week's upset, will need all of Joe Namath's heroics to stand off the rebounding Raiders, who have won two in a row. Tom Flores has Oakland on the move, but Namath's receivers give him a slight edge.

San Diego 17, Boston 14 - The Chargers have had some mild troubles in the East but their tough pass defense should be enough to contain Boston's Babe Parilli. San Diego won the first meeting this season, 24-0. It won't be this easy Sunday.

Houston 31, Miami 7 - Houston's George Blanda guided the Oilers to an upset over New York and will find the Dolphins will help Miami but not enough to win.

Kansas City 34, Denver 17 - The Denver offense has scored more than 10 points just once this year, and that's not enough. Len Dawson's passing should make it easy.

Congress Approves Pro Football Merger

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Johnson remained Friday the lone but minor hurdle in the proposed merger plans of the American and National Football Leagues.

The nation's two major professional leagues, however, will probably put the machinery in high gear immediately for the world championship game in January - first step in the merger - because Johnson almost certainly will sign the football bill passed by Congress.

The Senate, with only six members present, approved the bill allowing limited exemption to antitrust laws Friday on a voice vote. The measure was passed by the House, where most of the opposition lay, Thursday night.

The legislation now goes to Johnson for his signature which appears to be a formality since the measure is a rider on the administration's anti-inflation tax bill which the President wants badly. No date has been set for the signing, but the measure will not physically reach the White House before next week. It is also doubtful that Johnson would sign the tax bill before he returns from his Asian tour Nov. 3.

The football bill, in addition to setting the stage for the world championship game - most likely to be held Jan. 8 - will allow the leagues to combine into one 24-team operation, expand to a 28-team league by 1968 and possibly 28 ball bill passed by Congress.

A key provision in the legislation will permit the two leagues to hold a common draft and thus eliminate the bidding and paying of high bonuses and salaries to untried college players.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., who steered the bill to passage in the Senate, emphasized the antitrust exemption applied only to the merger agreement of the two football leagues.

He said the combined league, in its operations, will not have any greater immunity from the antitrust laws than the individual leagues have now.
